

A COURT AT MANILA.

First Step In the Direction of Self-Government.

REPORT FROM OTIS SATISFACTORY

Little Inland Campaigning Possible In Luzon, Rainy Season Being On—Rebels Encouraged by Opposition Sentiment In the United States—Tenth Embarking.

MANILA, June 27.—The Montana and Kansas volunteers were returning from San Fernando and the Twelfth and Ninth regulars will replace them.

Senor Luis Marinas, the first Spanish consul general at the Philippine islands, arrived here from Singapore on board the Isla la Luzon.

Delegations from the Spanish organizations, on tugs, met the steamer and welcomed the consul.

Great interest was taken in the result of the first step, which was being taken here, in the direction of the self-government. The court was sitting daily and the American and Filipino judges were holding consultations through an interpreter. A unanimous vote was required for a decision. Major General Otis persuaded Major Young of the Utah battery to remain on the court for a time after the battery departs. Three of the native justices were absent.

Ambrosio Rianzares, justice of the criminal branch of the court, happened to be at Tarlac, then the seat of the insurgent government, when the appointments were announced and he was arrested and sentenced to banishment for life. His present whereabouts were not known.

Pedro Llorente, associate justice of the supreme court, was in Cebu, where he had great influence, working to popularize American rule with good results.

The native judges will hold criminal courts having jurisdiction over all offenses except those committed by soldiers or against military authority.

The United States transport Sherman sailed for the island of Negros with the Sixth infantry, where the Californians were stationed.

The Bantayan correspondent of The Notifiers writes that gunboat Albany appeared off Bantayan June 8 and her commander told the authorities of the town that unless they declared allegiance to the United States and raised the American flag after 15 days he would bombard the town. The Albany then sailed, after announcing that she would return. The town, when the dispatch was forwarded, was greatly panic-stricken and it was thought the authorities would probably comply with the demand of the commander of the gunboat.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Otis' detailed report of the conditions existing in the Philippines was considered very satisfactory at the war department. It is taken to mean that General Otis will not now prosecute a campaign on account of the rainy season, except where the insurgents make it necessary to defend the territory now in possession of the United States. That portion of the dispatch telling of the belief among Filipinos that the present policy of the United States will not be upheld was regarded as of great significance. It is believed that when the Filipinos see there is no hope of their recognition by the United States they will give up the fight. The absence of any suggestion as to more troops being needed was taken to mean that General Otis did not believe they could be used to advantage at present.

The cablegram said:

MANILA, June 26.

Adjutant General, Washington:

Rainy season. Little inland campaigning possible in Luzon. We occupy large portion Tagalog country, lines stretching from Imus south to San Fernando north, nearly 60 miles, and to eastward into Laguna province. Insurgent armies have suffered great losses and are scattered; only large force held together about 4,000 in Tarlac province and northern Pampanga. Their scattered forces in bands of 50 to 500 in other portions of Luzon; in Cavite and Batangas provinces could assemble possibly 2,000, though demoralized from recent defeat; mass of people terrorized by insurgent soldiers, desire peace and American protection; no longer on approach of our troops, unless forced by insurgents, but lately welcome them; no recent burning of towns; population within our lines becoming dense, taking up land cultivation extensively; kept out Manila as much as possible, as city population becoming too great to be cared for. Natives Southeast Luzon coming to drive out insurgents; only hope insurgent leaders is United States aid.

They proclaim near overthrow present administration to be followed by their independence and recognition by United States. This is the influence which enables them to hold out. Much contention prevails among them and no civil government remains; trade with ports, not in our possession, former source of insurgent revenue now interdicted; not certain of wisdom of this policy, as people in those ports are without supply of food and merchants suffering losses; meditate restoring trade privileges, although insurgents reap the benefits. Courts here in successful operation under direction of able Filipinos.

Affairs in other islands comparatively quiet; awaiting results in Luzon. All anxious for trade and repeated calls for American troops received. Am giving attention to Jolo archipelago and Palawan islands. Our troops have worked to limit of endurance. Volunteer organizations have been called in; replaced by regulars, who now occupy salient positions. Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah now taking transports and Sixth infantry sent to Negros to relieve California. These troops in good physical condition.

Sickness among troops has increased lately, due mostly to arduous service and climatic influences. Nothing alarming. Of the 12 per cent of the command reported sick, nearly 6 in general hospital, of whom 3 per cent have typhoid and 17 malarial fevers; 25 per cent have intestinal trouble; remaining 55 per cent have various ailments, 14 of which due to wound injuries. Many officers and men who served in Cuba break under recurrence of Cuban fever and regular regiments lately received are inadequately trained.

OTIS. The inadequacy of the number of officers mentioned in last part of above cablegram was remedied by the sailing of the transports Zealandia and Sheridan, carrying a number of officers for regiments in the Philippines.

Adjutant General Corbin said that all officers belonging to the regiments in the Philippines who were not absent on account of a surgeon's certificate were under orders to join their regiments. Forty-four sailed on the recent transports going to Manila.

Secretary Alger said that no action would be taken for the enlargement of the army or sending troops to reinforce General Otis until the return of President McKinley. He also said that General Wheeler would receive no assignment until that time.

Adjutant General Corbin received a telegram from General Shafter at San Francisco stating that the transport Sheridan sailed for Manila. General Young and aides, Colonel Doggett, Major Quinton and Companies B and H of the Fourteenth infantry, 239 enlisted men and two company officers were on board; Troops A and F, Fourth cavalry, 7 officers and 173 enlisted men; Lieutenant Moss and 25 men, Twenty-fourth infantry; 8 hospital corps men and 41 members of the signal corps were on the transport. Recruits numbering 1,248 for the regiments already in the Philippines were carried. In addition to this were a number of company officers and assistant surgeons.

GOVERNOR ATKINSON'S OFFER.

Telegraphed He Could Furnish Two Regiments For Philippines.

WHEELING, June 27.—Governor Atkinson arrived from Charleston to attend the Elks' street fair, where he made the address of welcome. He sent the following telegram to Adjutant General Corbin of the United States army, at Washington:

WHEELING, June 26.

Major General H. C. Corbin, Washington:

I am confident that I can provide the government, for the Philippines, practically intact, the two West Virginia regiments drilled and equipped last year for the Spanish war; and I sincerely hope you will allow me to do it. These two regiments can be gotten together, in my judgment, inside of two weeks. If you will call for them.

G. W. ATKINSON, (Signed) Governor of West Virginia.

Thought the Filipinos Capable.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—Brigadier General Charles King, who returned from the Philippines a short time ago, in a letter to the Milwaukee Journal, published Monday, stated that the capability of the Filipinos for self-government could not be doubted and if given a fair chance they could look out for themselves start, they could look out for themselves better than our people infinitely. He said they rank far higher than the Cubans or the uneducated negroes to whom the United States had given the right of suffrage.

Soldier Accidentally Drowned.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Gen. Davis, at San Juan, Porto Rico, reported Private George E. McDunnion, Company E, Eleventh infantry, was accidentally drowned there.

HE OUT CHAUTAUQUA.

Harper No Longer Head of Collegiate Department.

METHODISTS WERE MUCH AROUSED

Objected to Moving Enterprises, Except Assembly, to Chicago—Rumored It Was Scheme of Baptists to Make It Adjunct of Chicago University.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A vain attempt to bring the Chautauqua enterprises to Chicago—all save the assembly, which would remain at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., according to The Record in its issue today, failed.

It was proposed to take the reading circle movement from Buffalo to Chicago, to take the publishing plant of Flood & Vincent, publishers of all the Chautauquan literature, to Chicago and to make this the center of the popular educational movement. It was understood that Bishop John H. Vincent, as chancellor of Chautauqua, was in favor of the plan of organization which included the removal to Chicago, the making of Dr. Harper the virtual head of the entire movement, the abolition of the office of superintendent of grounds, held by Dr. W. A. Duncan, and the office of treasurer, held by E. A. Skinner, and the creation of office of general manager, to be held by Ned Arden Flood, director of The University Press, managing editor of The Assembly Herald and superintendent of the publishing department of Flood & Vincent, also the position of head of the collegiate department, to be filled by Prof. George E. Vincent, assistant secretary of psychology at the University of Chicago.

When this plan became known it immediately struck terror to the hearts of the Methodists. They sought Bishop Vincent and asserted that the move would mean a "sell out" to the Baptists and that John D. Rockefeller would be in control of the Chautauquan movement. Dr. Harper heard of this and immediately announced that if there was a word of question impugning his motives he would withdraw entirely from Chautauqua. At the meeting last January he resigned as head of the collegiate department.

In March, Lewis Miller, head of the business department of Chautauqua, died, and a reorganization became necessary. Hostility to the Chicago plan brought to the front Wilson M. Day of Cleveland, on whose proposition it was decided that all of the departments of the association except the assembly should be centered in Cleveland.

George E. Vincent, who is a son of the chancellor, was elected to take Dr. Harper's place at the head of the collegiate department. Flood and Vincent sold out their business on their own terms to Chautauqua, and next month the control of The Chautauquan, The Assembly Herald and all of the books, copyrights and publishing franchises of Chautauqua press will be turned over to Mr. Day, who assumes the position of general manager, a new office, which includes the duties of the superintendent of grounds and of treasurer. Dr. Theodore L. Flood of Meadville, Pa., who has for 20 years, edited The Chautauquan, the organ of the movement, retires from his connection with the paper and all other association interests with the September issue.

Clem Studebaker of South Bend, Ind., who has been acting as the chairman of the board of trustees since the death of Mr. Miller, will be elected permanent chairman in August.

Miss Helen Gould's endowment of $25,000, secured through Dr. Harper, together with $25,000 to be raised by the reorganizers, will be set aside for an endowment fund. Andrew Carnegie is to be interested in the plan if possible, and a large endowment secured from him.

HOSTILE TO M'KINLEY.

Governor Gave Out an Interview, Which Repudiated a Statement Made by Secretary Alger.

DETROIT, June 27.—Governor Pinckney made a statement, brought out by Washington dispatches, which quoted Secretary Alger as saying that "Governor Pinckney is for President McKinley first, last and all the time."

Said the governor: "If General Alger said that, it is his opinion from his point of view. The question whether I am for McKinley lies with the president, not with me. If General Alger knows that President McKinley is opposed to territorial expansion, and is not an advocate of the murders and the destruction being visited upon the innocent Filipinos, he has a right to say that I am for McKinley."

"If General Alger is informed that McKinley is opposed to trusts and to legislation which fosters, creates and encourages them, and in favor of legislation to restrict and suppress them, then I am closer to the opinions of McKinley than has generally been believed. If General Alger is assured that President McKinley is not in touch and sympathy with the disreputable political methods of Mark Hanna and his friends, and deprecates such leadership, then I am for McKinley.

"The question of whether I favor McKinley is of no consequence in this senatorial matter, but I am for McKinley in everything he does which I consider right and against everything he does which I consider wrong."

Said Alliance Would Hurt Alger.

PAINESVILLE, June 27.—Senator Burrows of Michigan, in an interview here, declared that his colleague, Senator McMillan, would be a candidate to succeed himself and would be re-elected next year. Concerning Secretary Alger's alliance with Governor Pingree, Senator Burrows said he thought the secretary had destroyed what chance he might have had to go to the senate by making such an alliance.

WRANGLING THE TIME AWAY

Kentucky Democrats Again Failed to Make a Nomination Only Two Ballots Were Taken.

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—A continuous performance of howling farce, lasting about eight hours, a rare vocal entertainment, with soloists and a chorus of several hundred voices, declamation and tinhorn tests of lung power, made up the program of the sixth day's session of the Democratic state convention.

Angered by what they considered an arbitrary ruling of the chair, in refusing to allow an appeal from his decision, declaring out of order a motion to remove policemen from the hall, over half the delegates set about with all the energy they could command, to prevent by deafening noise the transaction of any further business until they secured a vote on this appeal.

Principally because of utter physical exhaustion the filibusters finally allowed themselves to be outwitted and a ballot on nomination for governor, which the chair had ordered and had tried repeatedly to proceed with, was concluded by having the county chairmen, or as many as would, come to the stage and yell their votes at the clerk, who, at a distance of a few inches, was able to catch the figures.

Before they fairly realized it they were beaten, and a second ballot was reached, this time with less tribulation. These two ballots, both fruitless, represented the day's work of the convention. After they were completed the convention adjourned until this morning.

Behind this spectacular entertainment, the three candidates for governor worked like beavers. It was clearly Goebel against the field, and the Kenton county leader, cold and nerveless as ever, successfully defied his two opponents to combine and defeat him. They may do it yet, but they had shown themselves woefully lacking in ability to throw their vote in any one direction or to keep it silent when their managers deemed it best that no votes be cast. Goebel controlled the organization and through it the state central committee, but the fight was as open and as fierce as it had been at any time.

NON-UNION MEN LEAVING.

General Disposition Among the Laboring People Not to Ride on Cars They Man In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—There was a general disposition among the workingmen to refuse to ride on cars manned by non-union crews, and if the conductor could not show a union card on demand workingmen refused to pay their fare or remain on the cars.

In consequence of this feeling, it was said, the non-union men are leaving the city in droves. The company had hoped to keep about 250 of them, but it was said that within a week not more than 50 would be left.

There was a serious outbreak of violence on a car manned by non-union men in South Brooklyn, just outside of city, last night. A crowd of 20 or more men boarded the car. They had previously placed a plank across the track. When the motorman alighted to remove the obstruction the crowd pelted him with eggs and stones and finally chased him half a mile. He was seriously injured, and the mob desisted only when he begged for mercy. The conductor was treated similarly. Then the crowd took possession of the car, broke all the windows, rang up fares on the register and refused to desist when an inspector arrived to take the car to the barns.

Knights of St. John.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—The twenty-first annual convention of the Knights of St. John opened with the attendance of about 400 delegates at pontifical high mass in St. John's cathedral. The convention proper began later in the chamber of commerce building with addresses of welcome by M. B. Excell, representing Mayor Farley, Bishop Horstman, Mrs. Charles W. Stewart and Brigadier General John Dunn. Supreme President Henry J. Wuest responded. In the afternoon the knights had a parade.

To Quit Playing In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—No more league games this year will be played here after the series with Boston closes July 1. President Robison said the cause is the refusal of nearly every club that has played here this season, to return, owing to the poor attendance. All the Cleveland games will be transferred to other cities.

HAWKINS' FINE RECORD

Alger Examined and Praised It Highly.

THE TENTH WOULD LOSE $100,000

If Mustered Out In Pittsburgh—Secretary Said It Would Cost That Amount In Round Numbers—Can Decide Themselves at San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—When waited upon by Attorney General Elkin of Pennsylvania, R. B. Scandrett of Pittsburgh, Fred Edwards, register of Allegheny county; W. R. Andrews, private secretary to Senator Penrose, and others, who presented the views of the citizens' committees of Pittsburgh to have the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment mustered out at Pittsburgh, Secretary Alger was reported to have said:

"GENTLEMEN—While I appreciate the wishes of the people of the Smoky City and of Western Pennsylvania to have their soldier boys of the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, mustered out of the service at Pittsburgh instead of at San Francisco, I feel that that is a question that the officers and men alone should decide. It will mean in round numbers a loss to the regiment of about $100,000 if your request is granted, as that is about the difference between bringing the regiment to Pittsburgh for muster out and of mustering it out in San Francisco and then giving them travel pay and allowance to their homes."

"I advised the officers and men of all the volunteers at Manila of the difference in pay to them by the two systems, and Gen. Otis advised me that the Pennsylvanians, as well as nearly all of the others, preferred to be mustered out at San Francisco, and thus secure the extra amount that would come to each."

"However, when the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, arrives at San Francisco if the officers and men change their minds and prefer to be mustered out at Pittsburgh I will see to it that their wishes are carried out. But they alone can decide this matter."

Promotion for Hawkins.

Mr. Elkin then brought up the matter of the promotion of Col. Hawkins to be brigadier-general. He cleverly sketched the splendid military record of Col. Hawkins and called especial attention to his services in the Philippines. He then told the secretary that a good deal of surprise was openly expressed all over Pennsylvania that Col. Hawkins should be about the only volunteer colonel in the Philippines to fail to receive this recognition and especially as he had merited it. Messrs. Scandrett, Edwards and Andrews followed in the same line and strongly urged the promotion.

Secretary Alger called for a copy of Col. Hawkins' record and after examining it, expressed himself in the highest terms about it. He appeared to be surprised that the colonel had not been promoted and promised the delegation that he would call the president's attention to the matter as soon as he returned from Massachusetts.

The delegation then withdrew and held a short conference. It was agreed that the full committee should come here on July 6 to talk with the president and secretary again on this matter.

From what the secretary said about the muster out at Pittsburgh the members of the delegation realized that he thought the city of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania ought not to permit the members of the Tenth to suffer the loss of $100,000 and that if they agreed to muster out at Pittsburgh they should be reimbursed by the city or state.

Regiment En Route.

Homeward bound! Unless there has been some unexpected delay the Tenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers is now en route from Manila to San Francisco, on board one of the army transports. This information was given to the Commercial Gazette correspondent this afternoon by Adjutant-General Corbin, who said:

"Gen. Otis sent a cablegram yesterday announcing that the Pennsylvania troops were then en route on one of the transports. That should not take long, and the transport is now undoubtedly on its way to San Francisco."

Gen. Corbin was then told of the warm welcome awaiting the Pennsylvania boys at Pittsburgh and the general desire that the regiment should be mustered out there instead of at San Francisco. In reply, he said:

"When the regiment arrives at San Francisco, if the officers and men desire to be mustered out at Pittsburgh the order will be at once issued to that effect. The regiment has made a splendid record in the Philippines, and the president believes in acceding to their desires as much as possible. It will be no trouble to muster them out at Pittsburgh. All we desire to know is the wishes of a majority of the officers and men."

SENATOR ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Said to Have Written a Letter, Alleged to Have Come From Philippines.

SIOUX FALLS, June 27.—Alf Burkholder, a newspaper man, has created a sensation in political and army circles in South Dakota, by charging that a United States senator forged a letter in support of the senator's hostility to expansion and to the war in the Philippines.

The letter purported to have been written by an officer of the First regiment, South Dakota volunteers, whose name was withheld through fear that the writer would be court-martialed.

Cruiser With Dreyfus Aboard.

PARIS, June 27.—The French cruiser Sfax, with Captain Alfred Dreyfus on board, sailed at St. Michaels, Azores islands, Wednesday last.

Miss Helen Gould's endowment of $25,000, secured through Dr. Harper, together with $25,000 to be raised by the reorganizers, will be set aside for an endowment fund. Andrew Carnegie is to be interested in the plan if possible, and a large endowment secured from him.

HOSTILE TO M'KINLEY.

Governor Gave Out an Interview, Which Repudiated a Statement Made by Secretary Alger.

DETROIT, June 27.—Governor Pingree made a statement, brought out by Washington dispatches, which quoted Secretary Alger as saying that "Governor Pingree is for President McKinley first, last and all the time."

Said the governor: "If General Alger said that, it is his opinion from his point of view. The question whether I am for McKinley lies with the president, not with me. If General Alger knows that President McKinley is opposed to territorial expansion, and is not an advocate of the murders and the destruction being visited upon the innocent Filipinos, he has a right to say that I am for McKinley."

"If General Alger is informed that McKinley is opposed to trusts and to legislation which fosters, creates and encourages them, and in favor of legislation to restrict and suppress them, then I am closer to the opinions of McKinley than has generally been believed. If General Alger is assured that President McKinley is not in touch and sympathy with the discrep-

table political methods of Mark Hanna and his friends, and deprecates such leadership, then I am for McKinley.

"The question of whether I favor McKinley is of no consequence in this senatorial matter, but I am for McKinley in everything he does which I consider right and against everything he does which I consider wrong."

Said Alliance Would Hurt Alger.

PAINESVILLE, June 27.—Senator Burrows of Michigan, in an interview here, declared that his colleague, Senator McMillan, would be a candidate to succeed himself and would be re-elected next year. Concerning Secretary Alger's alliance with Governor Pingree, Senator Burrows said he thought the secretary had destroyed what chance he might have had to go to the senate by making such an alliance.

WRANGLING THE TIME AWAY

Kentucky Democrats Again Failed to Make a Nomination Only Two Ballots Were Taken.

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—A continuous performance of howling farce, lasting about eight hours, a rare vocal entertainment, with soloists and a chorus of several hundred voices, declamation and tinhorn tests of lung power, made up the program of the sixth day's session of the Democratic state convention.

Angered by what they considered an arbitrary ruling of the chair, in refusing to allow an appeal from his decision, declaring out of order a motion to remove policemen from the hall, over half the delegates set about with all the energy they could command, to prevent by deafening noise the transaction of any further business until they secured a vote on this appeal.

Principally because of utter physical exhaustion the filibusters finally allowed themselves to be outwitted and a ballot on nomination for governor, which the chair had ordered and had tried repeatedly to proceed with, was concluded by having the county chairmen, or as many as would, come to the stage and yell their votes at the clerk, who, at a distance of a few inches, was able to catch the figures.

Before they fairly realized it they were beaten, and a second ballot was reached, this time with less tribulation. These two ballots, both fruitless, represented the day's work of the convention. After they were completed the convention adjourned until this morning.

Behind this spectacular entertainment, the three candidates for governor worked like beavers. It was clearly Goebel against the field, and the Kenton county leader, cold and nerveless as ever, successfully defied his two opponents to combine and defeat him. They may do it yet, but they had shown themselves woefully lacking in ability to throw their vote in any one direction or to keep it silent when their managers deemed it best that no votes be cast. Goebel controlled the organization and through it the state central committee, but the fight was as open and as fierce as it had been at any time.

NON-UNION MEN LEAVING.

General Disposition Among the Laboring People Not to Ride on Cars They Man In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—There was a general disposition among the workingmen to refuse to ride on cars manned by non-union crews, and if the conductor could not show a union card on demand workingmen refused to pay their fare or remain on the cars.

In consequence of this feeling, it was said, the non-union men are leaving the city in droves. The company had hoped to keep about 250 of them, but it was said that within a week not more than 50 would be left.

There was a serious outbreak of violence on a car manned by non-union men in South Brooklyn, just outside of city, last night. A crowd of 20 or more men boarded the car. They had previously placed a plank across the track. When the motorman alighted to remove the obstruction the crowd pelted him with eggs and stones and finally chased him half a mile. He was seriously injured, and the mob desisted only when he begged for mercy. The conductor was treated similarly. Then the crowd took possession of the car, broke all the windows, rang up fares on the register and refused to desist when an inspector arrived to take the car to the barns.

Knights of St. John.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—The twenty-first annual convention of the Knights of St. John opened with the attendance of about 400 delegates at pontifical high mass in St. John's cathedral. The convention proper began later in the chamber of commerce building with addresses of welcome by M. B. Excell, representing Mayor Farley, Bishop Horstman, Mrs. Charles W. Stewart and Brigadier General John Dunn. Supreme President Henry J. Wuest responded. In the afternoon the knights had a parade.

To Quit Playing In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—No more league games this year will be played here after the series with Boston closes July 1. President Robinson said the cause is the refusal of nearly every club that has played here this season, to return, owing to the poor attendance. All the Cleveland games will be transferred to other cities.

HAWKINS' FINE RECORD

Alger Examined and Praised It Highly.

THE TENTH WOULD LOSE $100,000

If Mustered Out In Pittsburgh—Secretary Said It Would Cost That Amount In Round Numbers—Can Decide Themselves at San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—When waited upon by Attorney General Elkin of Pennsylvania, R. B. Scandrett of Pittsburgh, Fred Edwards, register of Allegheny county; W. R. Andrews, private secretary to Senator Penrose, and others, who presented the views of the citizens' committees of Pittsburgh to have the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment mustered out at Pittsburgh, Secretary Alger was reported to have said:

"GENTLEMEN—While I appreciate the wishes of the people of the Smoky City and of Western Pennsylvania to have their soldier boys of the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, mustered out of the service at Pittsburgh instead of at San Francisco, I feel that that is a question that the officers and men alone should decide. It will mean in round numbers a loss to the regiment of about $100,000 if your request is granted, as that is about the difference between bringing the regiment to Pittsburgh for muster out and of mustering it out in San Francisco and then giving them travel pay and allowance to their homes."

"I advised the officers and men of all the volunteers at Manila of the difference in pay to them by the two systems, and Gen. Otis advised me that the Pennsylvanians, as well as nearly all of the others, preferred to be mustered out at San Francisco, and thus secure the extra amount that would come to each."

"However, when the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, arrives at San Francisco if the officers and men change their minds and prefer to be mustered out at Pittsburgh I will see to it that their wishes are carried out. But they alone can decide this matter."

Promotion for Hawkins.

Mr. Elkin then brought up the matter of the promotion of Col. Hawkins to be brigadier-general. He cleverly sketched the splendid military record of Col. Hawkins and called especial attention to his services in the Philippines. He then told the secretary that a good deal of surprise was openly expressed all over Pennsylvania that Col. Hawkins should be about the only volunteer colonel in the Philippines to fail to receive this recognition and especially as he had merited it. Messrs. Scandrett, Edwards and Andrews followed in the same line and strongly urged the promotion.

Secretary Alger called for a copy of Col. Hawkins' record and after examining it, expressed himself in the highest terms about it. He appeared to be surprised that the colonel had not been promoted and promised the delegation that he would call the president's attention to the matter as soon as he returned from Massachusetts.

The delegation then withdrew and held a short conference. It was agreed that the full committee should come here on July 6 to talk with the president and secretary again on this matter.

From what the secretary said about the muster out at Pittsburgh the members of the delegation realized that he thought the city of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania ought not to permit the members of the Tenth to suffer the loss of $100,000 and that if they agreed to muster out at Pittsburgh they should be reimbursed by the city or state.

Regiment En Route.

Homeward bound! Unless there has been some unexpected delay the Tenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers is now en route from Manila to San Francisco, on board one of the army transports. This information was given to The Commercial Gazette correspondent this afternoon by Adjutant-General Corbin, who said:

"Gen. Otis sent a cablegram yesterday announcing that the Pennsylvania troops were then embarking on one of the transports. That should not take long, and the transport is now undoubtedly on its way to San Francisco."

Gen. Corbin was then told of the warm welcome awaiting the Pennsylvania boys at Pittsburgh and the general desire that the regiment should be mustered out there instead of at San Francisco. In reply he said:

"When the regiment arrives at San Francisco, if the officers and men desire to be mustered out at Pittsburgh the order will be at once issued to that effect. The regiment has made a splendid record in the Philippines, and the president believes in acceding to their desires as much as possible. It will be no trouble to muster them out at Pittsburgh. All we desire to know is the wishes of a majority of the officers and men."

SENATOR ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Said to Have Written a Letter, Alleged to Have Come From Philippines.

SIoux FALLS, June 27.—Alf Burkholder, a newspaper man, has created a sensation in political and army circles in South Dakota, by charging that a United States senator forged a letter in support of the senator's hostility to expansion and to the war in the Philippines.

The letter purported to have been written by an officer of the First regiment, South Dakota volunteers, whose name was withheld through fear that the writer would be court-martialed.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

15TH YEAR. NO. 16.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, JUNE 27, 1899.

TWO CENTS

A COURT AT MANILA.

First Step In the Direction of Self-Government.

REPORT FROM OTIS SATISFACTORY

Little Inland Campaigning Possible In Luzon. Rainy Season Being On—Rebels Encouraged by Opposition Sentiment In the United States—Tenth Embarking.

MANILA, June 27.—The Montana and Kansas volunteers were returning from San Fernando and the Twelfth and Ninth regulars will replace them.

Sensr Luis Marinas, the first Spanish consul general at the Philippine islands, arrived here from Singapore on board the Isla la Luzon.

Delegations from the Spanish organizations, on tugs, met the steamer and welcomed the consul.

Great interest was taken in the result of the first step, which was being taken here, in the direction of the self-government. The court was sitting daily and the American and Filipino judges were holding consultations through an interpreter. A unanimous vote was required for a decision. Major General Otis persuaded Major Young of the Utah battery to remain on the court for a time after the battery departs. Three of the native justices were absent. Ambrosio Rianzares, justice of the criminal branch of the court, happened to be at Tarlac, then the seat of the insurgent government, when the appointments were announced and he was arrested and sentenced to banishment for life. His present whereabouts were not known.

Pedro Llorente, associate justice of the supreme court, was in Cebu, where he had great influence, working to popularize American rule with good results.

The native judges will hold criminal courts having jurisdiction over all offenses except those committed by soldiers or against military authority.

The United States transport Sherman sailed for the island of Negros with the Sixth infantry, where the Californians were stationed.

The Bantayan correspondent of The Noticiero writes that gunboat Albany appeared off Bantayan June 8 and her commander told the authorities of the town that unless they declared allegiance to the United States and raised the American flag after 15 days he would bombard the town. The Albany then sailed, after announcing that she would return. The town, when the dispatch was forwarded, was greatly panic-stricken and it was thought the authorities would probably comply with the demand of the commander of the gunboat.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Otis' detailed report of the conditions existing in the Philippines was considered very satisfactory at the war department. It is taken to mean that General Otis will not now prosecute a campaign on account of the rainy season, except where the insurgents make it necessary to defend the territory now in possession of the United States. That portion of the dispatch telling of the belief among Filipinos that the present policy of the United States will not be upheld was regarded as of great significance. It is believed that when the Filipinos see there is no hope of their recognition by the United States they will give up the fight. The absence of any suggestion as to more troops being needed was taken to mean that General Otis did not believe they could be used to advantage at present.

The cablegram said:

MANILA, June 26.

Adjutant General, Washington: Rainy season. Little inland campaigning possible in Luzon. We occupy large portion Tagalog country, lines stretching from Imus south to San Fernando north, nearly 60 miles, and to eastward into Laguna province. Insurgent armies have suffered great losses and are scattered; only large force held together about 4,000 in Tarlac province and northern Pampanga. Their scattered forces in bands of 50 to 500 in other portions of Luzon; in Cavite and Batangas provinces could assemble possibly 2,000, though demoralized from recent defeat; mass of people terrorized by insurgent soldiers; desire peace and American protection; no longer on approach of our troops, unless forced by insurgents, but lately welcome them; no recent burning of towns; population within our lines becoming dense, taking up land cultivation extensively; kept out Manila as much as possible, as city population becoming too great to be cared for. Natives Southeast Luzon coming to drive out insurgents; only hope insurgent leaders is United States aid.

They proclaim near overthrow present administration to be followed by their independence and recognition by United States. This is the influence which enables them to hold out. Much contention prevails among them and no civil government remains; trade with ports, not in our possession, former source of insurgent revenue now interdicted; not certain of wisdom of this policy, as people in those ports are without supply of food and merchants suffering losses; meditate restoring trade privileges, although insurgents reap the benefits. Courts here in successful operation under direction of some Filipinos.

Affairs in other islands comparatively quiet; awaiting results in Luzon. All anxious for trade and repeated calls for American troops received. Am giving attention to Jolo archipelago and Palawan islands. Our troops have worked to limit of endurance. Volunteer organizations have been called in; replaced by regulars, who now occupy salient positions. Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah now taking transports and Sixth infantry sent to Negros to relieve California. These troops in good physical condition.

Sickness among troops has increased lately, due mostly to arduous service and climatic influences. Nothing alarming. Of the 12 per cent of the command reported sick, nearly 6 in general hospital, of whom 3 per cent have typhoid and 17 malarial fevers; 25 per cent have intestinal trouble; remaining 55 per cent have various ailments, 14 of which due to wound injuries. Many officers and men who served in Cuba break under recurrence of Cuban fever and regular regiments lately received are inadequately trained.

OTIS. The inadequacy of the number of officers mentioned in last part of above cablegram was remedied by the sailing of the transports Zealandia and Sheridan, carrying a number of officers for regiments in the Philippines.

Adjutant General Corbin said that all officers belonging to the regiments in the Philippines who were not absent on account of a surgeon's certificate were under orders to join their regiments. Forty-four sailed on the recent transports going to Manila.

Secretary Alger said that no action would be taken for the enlargement of the army or sending troops to reinforce General Otis until the return of President McKinley. He also said that General Wheeler would receive no assignment until that time.

Adjutant General Corbin received a telegram from General Shafter at San Francisco stating that the transport Sheridan sailed for Manila. General Young and aides, Colonel Doggett, Major Quinton and Companies B and H of the Fourteenth infantry, 239 enlisted men and two company officers were on board; Troops A and F, Fourth cavalry, 7 officers and 173 enlisted men; Lieutenant Moss and 25 men, Twenty-fourth infantry; 8 hospital corps men and 41 members of the signal corps were on the transport. Recruits numbering 1,248 for the regiments already in the Philippines were carried. In addition to this were a number of company officers and assistant surgeons.

GOVERNOR ATKINSON'S OFFER.

Telegraphed He Could Furnish Two Regiments For Philippines.

WHEELING, June 27.—Governor Atkinson arrived from Charleston to attend the Elks' street fair, where he made the address of welcome. He sent the following telegram to Adjutant General Corbin of the United States army, at Washington:

WHEELING, June 26.

Major General H. C. Corbin, Washington: I am confident that I can provide the government for the Philippines, practically intact, the two West Virginia regiments drilled and equipped last year for the Spanish war; and I sincerely hope you will allow me to do it. These two regiments can be gotten together, in my judgment, inside of two weeks, if you will call for them.

G. W. ATKINSON, Governor of West Virginia.

Thought the Filipinos Capable.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—Brigadier General Charles King, who returned from the Philippines a short time ago, in a letter to the Milwaukee Journal, published Monday, stated that the capability of the Filipinos for self-government it of the Filipinos for self-government could not be doubted and if given a fair start, they could look out for themselves infinitely better than our people imagine. He said they rank far higher than the Cubans or the uneducated negroes to whom the United States had given the right of suffrage.

Soldier Accidentally Drowned.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Gen. Davis, at San Juan, Porto Rico, reported Private George E. McDunnion, Company E, Eleventh infantry, was accidentally drowned there.

HE QUIT CHAUTAUQUA.

Harper No Longer Head of Collegiate Department.

METHODISTS WERE MUCH AROUSED

Objected to Moving Enterprises, Except Assembly, to Chicago—Rumored It Was Scheme of Baptists to Make It Adjunct of Chicago University.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A vain attempt to bring the Chautauqua enterprises to Chicago—all save the assembly, which would remain at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., according to The Record in its issue today, failed.

It was proposed to take the reading circle movement from Buffalo to Chicago, to take the publishing plant of Flood & Vincent, publishers of all the Chautauquan literature, to Chicago and to make this the center of the popular educational movement. It was understood that Bishop John H. Vincent, as chancellor of Chautauqua, was in favor of the plan of organization which included the removal to Chicago, the making of Dr. Harper the virtual head of the entire movement, the abolition of the office of superintendent of grounds, held by Dr. W. A. Duncan, and the office of treasurer, held by E. A. Skinner, and the creation of office of general manager, to be held by Ned Arden Flood, director of The University Press, managing editor of The Assembly Herald and superintendent of the publishing department of Flood & Vincent, also the position of head of the collegiate department, to be filled by Prof. George E. Vincent, assistant secretary of psychology at the University of Chicago.

When this plan became known it immediately struck terror to the hearts of the Methodists. They sought Bishop Vincent and asserted that the move would mean a "sell out" to the Baptists and that John D. Rockefeller would be in control of the Chautauquan movement. Dr. Harper heard of this and immediately announced that if there was a word of question impugning of his motives he would withdraw entirely from Chautauqua. At the meeting last January he resigned as head of the collegiate department.

In March, Lewis Miller, head of the business department of Chautauqua, died, and a reorganization became necessary. Hostility to the Chicago plan brought to the front Wilson M. Day of Cleveland, on whose proposition it was decided that all of the departments of the association except the assembly should be centered in Cleveland.

George E. Vincent, who is a son of the chancellor, was elected to take Dr. Harper's place at the head of the collegiate department. Flood and Vincent sold out their business on their own terms to Chautauqua, and next month the control of The Chautauquan, The Assembly Herald and all of the books, copyrights and publishing franchises of Chautauqua press will be turned over to Mr. Day, who assumes the position of general manager, a new office, which includes the duties of the superintendent of grounds and of treasurer. Dr. Theodore L. Flood of Meadville, Pa., who has for 20 years, edited The Chautauquan, the organ of the movement, retires from his connection with the paper and all other association interests with the September issue.

Clem Studebaker of South Bend, Ind., who has been acting as the chairman of the board of trustees since the death of Mr. Miller, will be elected permanent chairman in August.

Miss Helen Gould's endowment of $25,000, secured through Dr. Harper, together with $25,000 to be raised by the reorganizers, will be set aside for an endowment fund. Andrew Carnegie is to be interested in the plan if possible, and a large endowment secured from him.

THE EAST END. A NEW DRY FLOOR

Among the Improvements Mentioned For the Brick Yard.

WATCHMAN AT RALSTON CROSSING

A Request to Be Made to the Cleveland and Pittsburg Company—Henry Chambers Injured—Another Petition Being Circulated—New Case at the Post Office.

More improvements are slated for the East End brickyard. In a conversation with Alex Johnson, superintendent of the works, yesterday, that person said: "Yes, we intend to make some material changes in the works before many months pass. We are now figuring on a new dry floor with a capacity of at least 25,000 brick per day. We also intend to erect several new kilns, and with the new machinery in position there will not be a better plant in this state.

"The brick machine will be placed in position soon, for today work was commenced demolishing the old machine. The new boilers will be placed while work is being done on the brick machine."

WANT A WATCHMAN.

Ralston Crossing Will Be Discussed at Council Meeting.

Several business men of East End will appear before council this evening and ask that body to request the Pennsylvania railroad company to place a watchman at Ralston crossing. The place is a very dangerous one and residents of that part of the city are of the opinion that there should be a watchman at the crossing or the road should be improved by being brought up to the grade of the railroad. It is true that while very few accidents have happened at the place, it is one of the most dangerous parts of the road between Smith's Ferry and Welleville.

CASE IN POSITION.

Improvements at the Postoffice Completed Yesterday.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

Received From Daniel Eckler, One of the Recent Recruits Now In Cuba.

In a letter received from Daniel C. Eckler, of Troop K, Eighth United States cavalry, now stationed at Puerto Principe, Cuba, he says:

"We Americans can hardly form any correct conception of life in the Tropics. To the generality of us, Cuba suggests the idea of heat and yellow fever, of venomous reptiles and insects, slaves and sugar, oranges and ever-blooming flowers—an idea in a great degree erroneous. While just at present we see the worst side of the 'Queen of the Antilles,' yet under the influence of Americans, we are beginning to realize why it is called the Beautiful Isle, and once called 'the most precious jewel of the Spanish crown.' While the lower class of Cubans are dirty, apparently never washing themselves only when it rains, standing like ducks, washing off the dirt, some going around with nothing on but a towel, the better class are beginning to pick up again. As you talk to them of their Cuba you can see the hearts of their sons and the dark, lustrous eyes of the maidens glow and glisten with pride. But to those who have any intention of making a visit to the island of Cuba, of traveling over the island, of enjoying the beautiful scenery, its oddities of manners and customs, I recommend to pick up a little Spanish even if it is only enough to ask for something to eat."

THE NEW SCHOOL TERM

Will Commence Second Monday In September.

BOARD OF EDUCATION LISTENED

To a Number of Architects Who Submitted Plans For the New East End Building—Three States Were Represented and Some Fine Plans Submitted.

The Board of Education held an interesting meeting last night, but transacted very little business. The nine architects who submitted plans, occupied the attention of the board for three hours, and when the last member of the board left the building, the big clock was striking the eleventh hour.

Opening of School.

This was the first business transacted by the board. Superintendent R. E. Rayman called attention to the matter first, as it required only a few minutes to set the date as September 11, for the commencement of the new term.

Paid Some Bills.

The following bills were ordered paid: J. H. McDole, $2.06; News Review, $24.75; John Wallace, $7.00; Kinsey, Schmetzenberg, Gaston, Burgess, board of election, $12.00; Marie Sutton, $0.75; Frank Crook, $1.00; Wilson Stationery Company, $4.50; Ohio Valley Gas Company, $36.80; Mrs. A. M. Davidson, $10.47; Potters' National Bank, $12.50; First National Bank, $75.00; Citizens' Bank, $25.00; Crisis, $0.30.

Pleasant Heights School.

George Olmhausen dropped in the meeting and said a few things about a building in Pleasant Heights. He was told to get the names of children who attended school from that district, a petition and a location for a building, come back at the next meeting and make a report. He stated he would do all asked of him, and

The Grant Street School

Improvements were brought up. The building committee decided upon the plans of Architect Nease for this work, and they were instructed to advertise for bids for the work, and commence on the building as soon as possible.

Listened to Architects.

For two hours the board heard what the architects had to say. There were 10 present and were as follows: C. M. Bartberger, J. P. Bailey, William Young Brady, F. H. DeArmett, W. J. Shaw, William Kaufman, of Pittsburg; Harry E. Farney, Wheeling; George F. Hammond, Cleveland; J. C. Cunningham, J. C. Nease, A. W. Scott, of this city. G. H. Hedges, of Pittsburg, sold building supplies and showed his samples. Plans from J. A. Snyder, of Beaver Falls, and F. C. Bate, of Cleveland were submitted, but the men were not present personally.

The Price Varied

from $15,000 to $25,000. Some plans included heating, others did not. Brick and frame building plans were submitted, and one architect furnished plans for a 10 room building to be built on the same ground as an 8 room building.

Took No Action.

All the members began to feel sleepy, and Dr. J. C. Taggart thought it would be a good idea to adjourn to meet Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at which time the matter will be settled. It is very likely the plans of an Ohio man will be selected.

comes so soon to this tragic end.

If men would only take the most common sense precautions against the encroachments of ill-health, there would be fewer houses of mourning, and fewer women left alone almost helpless before the battle of life is half over. A man's liver and stomach are twin machines that work together, either to make or unmake. If they work wrong, they deplete and poison his blood. Impure and impoverished blood mean sickness and death. If they work right, they purify and enrich the blood. A man whose blood is rich and pure, and whose liver is active cannot well be unhealthy. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and costiveness, which men generally disregard, are Nature's warnings that the twin mechanism, stomach and liver, is working against, instead of for him. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine to use under these circumstances. It creates appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and fills the arteries with rich, red, healthy blood. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, it is far superior to all the malt extracts. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not build sickly, flabby fat as cod liver oil does, but the firm, muscular tissues of health.

"For the last nine years," writes William Miller, Esq., of 65 Mulberry Street, Reading, Pa., "I have been very poor in health. I suffered with a running sore leg. I tried many kinds of different medicines, and doctors without relief. Then I used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and can say that I am entirely cured. I can now do as good a day's work as the next man."

Unfailable—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation and biliousness.

A Request to Be Made to the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Company—Henry Chambers Injured—Another Petition Being Circulated—New Case at the Post Office.

More improvements are slated for the East End brickyard. In a conversation with Alex Johnson, superintendent of the works, yesterday, that person said: "Yes, we intend to make some material changes in the works before many months pass. We are now figuring on a new dry floor with a capacity of at least 25,000 brick per day. We also intend to erect several new kilns, and with the new machinery in position there will not be a better plant in this state."

"The brick machine will be placed in position soon, for today work was commenced demolishing the old machine. The new boilers will be placed while work is being done on the brick machine."

WANT A WATCHMAN.

Ralston Crossing Will Be Discussed at Council Meeting.

Several business men of East End will appear before council this evening and ask that body to request the Pennsylvania railroad company to place a watchman at Ralston crossing. The place is a very dangerous one and residents of that part of the city are of the opinion that there should be a watchman at the crossing or the road should be improved by being brought up to the grade of the railroad. It is true that while very few accidents have happened at the place, it is one of the most dangerous parts of the road between Smith's Ferry and Wellesville.

CASE IN POSITION.

Improvements at the Postoffice Completed Yesterday.

Postmaster Baird yesterday completed the work of placing the new case in position. The case contains 126 boxes, of which 14 are combination and 112 general ones. The case is much larger than the old one, but since in position many persons who had no box in the past have taken one. The business of the office is increasing rapidly. Several other improvements will be made to the office in the near future. All the combination boxes are sold and 25 more will be added soon.

When death has laid its cold and relentless hand upon a kind and loving husband, the wife cannot be blamed for asking herself if all her years of devotion and work and helpfulness were worth the while, when it comes so soon to this tragic end.

If men would only take the most common sense precautions against the encroachments of ill-health, there would be fewer houses of mourning, and fewer women left alone almost helpless before the battle of life is half over. A man's liver and stomach are twin machines that work together, either to make or unmake. If they work wrong, they deplete and poison his blood. Impure and impoverished blood means sickness and death. If they work right, they purify and enrich the blood. A man whose blood is rich and pure, and whose liver is active cannot well be unhealthy. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and costiveness, which men generally disregard, are Nature's warnings that the twin mechanism, stomach and liver, is working against, instead of for him. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine to use under these circumstances. It creates appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and fills the arteries with rich, red, healthy blood. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, it is far superior to all the malt extracts. It does not build sickly, flabby fat as cod liver oil does, but the firm, muscular tissues of health.

"For the last nine years," writes William Miller, Esq., of 65 Mulberry Street, Reading, Pa., "I have been very poor in health. I suffered with a running sore leg. I tried many kinds of different medicines, and doctors without relief. Then I used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and can say that I am entirely cured. I can now do as good a day's work as the next man."

WATCHMAN AT RALSTON CROSSING

A Request to Be Made to the Cleveland and Pittsburg Company—Henry Chambers Injured—Another Petition Being Circulated—New Case at the Post Office.

More improvements are slated for the East End brickyard. In a conversation with Alex Johnson, superintendent of the works, yesterday, that person said: "Yes, we intend to make some material changes in the works before many months pass. We are now figuring on a new dry floor with a capacity of at least 25,000 brick per day. We also intend to erect several new kilns, and with the new machinery in position there will not be a better plant in this state.

"The brick machine will be placed in position soon, for today work was commenced demolishing the old machine. The new boilers will be placed while work is being done on the brick machine."

WANT A WATCHMAN.

Ralston Crossing Will Be Discussed at Council Meeting.

Several business men of East End will appear before council this evening and ask that body to request the Pennsylvania railroad company to place a watchman at Ralston crossing. The place is a very dangerous one and residents of that part of the city are of the opinion that there should be a watchman at the crossing or the road should be improved by being brought up to the grade of the railroad. It is true that while very few accidents have happened at the place, it is one of the most dangerous parts of the road between Smith's Ferry and Wellsville.

CASE IN POSITION.

Improvements at the Postoffice Completed Yesterday.

Postmaster Baird yesterday completed the work of placing the new case in position. The case contains 126 boxes, of which 14 are combination and 112 general ones. The case is much larger than the old one, but since in position many persons who had no box in the past have taken one. The business of the office is increasing rapidly. Several other improvements will be made to the office in the near future. All the combination boxes are sold and 25 more will be added soon.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

Received From Daniel Eckler, One of the Recent Recruits Now In Cuba.

In a letter received from Daniel C. Eckler, of Troop K, Eighth United States cavalry, now stationed at Puerto Principe, Cuba, he says:

"We Americans can hardly form any correct conception of 'life in the Tropics.' To the generality of us, Cuba suggests the idea of heat and yellow fever, of venomous reptiles and insects, slaves and sugar, oranges and ever-blooming flowers—an idea in a great degree erroneous. While just at present we see the worst side of the 'Queen of the Antilles,' yet under the influence of Americans, we are beginning to realize why it is called the Beautiful Isle, and once called 'the most precious jewel of the Spanish crown.' While the lower class of Cubans are dirty, apparently never washing themselves only when it rains, standing like ducks, washing off the dirt, some going around with nothing on but a towel, the better class are beginning to pick up again. As you talk to them of their Cuba you can see the hearts of their sons and the dark, lustrous eyes of the maidens glow and glisten with pride. But to those who have any intention of making a visit to the island of Cuba, of traveling over the island, of enjoying the beautiful scenery, its oddities of manners and customs, I recommend to pick up a little Spanish even if it is only enough to ask for something to eat."

THE NEW SCHOOL TERM

Will Commence Second Monday In September.

BOARD OF EDUCATION LISTENED

To a Number of Architects Who Submitted Plans For the New East End Building—Three States Were Represented and Some Fine Plans Submitted.

The Board of Education held an interesting meeting last night, but transacted very little business. The nine architects who submitted plans, occupied the attention of the board for three hours, and when the last member of the board left the building, the big clock was striking the eleventh hour.

Opening of School.

This was the first business transacted by the board. Superintendent R. E. Rayman called attention to the matter first, as it required only a few minutes to set the date as September 11, for the commencement of the new term.

Paid Some Bills.

The following bills were ordered paid: J. H. McDole, $2.06; News Review, $24.75; John Wallace, $7.00; Kinsey, Schmetzenberg, Gaston, Burgess, board of election, $12.00; Marie Sutton, $0.75; Frank Crook, $1.00; Wilson Stationery Company, $4.50; Ohio Valley Gas Company, $36.80; Mrs. A. M. Davidson, $10.47; Potters' National Bank, $12.50; First National Bank, $75.00; Citizens' Bank, $25.00; Crisis, $0.30.

Pleasant Heights School.

George Olnhausen dropped in the meeting and said a few things about a building in Pleasant Heights. He was told to get the names of children who attended school from that district, a petition and a location for a building, come back at the next meeting and make a report. He stated he would do all asked of him, and

The Grant Street School

Improvements were brought up. The building committee decided upon the plans of Architect Nease for this work, and they were instructed to advertise for bids for the work, and commence on the building as soon as possible.

Listened to Architects.

For two hours the board heard what the architects had to say. There were 10 present and were as follows: C. M. Bartberger, J. P. Bailey, William Young Brady, F. H. DeArmett, W. J. Shaw, William Kaufman, of Pittsburg; Harry E. Farney, Wheeling; George F. Hammond, Cleveland; J. C. Cunningham, J. C. Nease, A. W. Scott, of this city. G. H. Hedges, of Pittsburg, sold building supplies and showed his samples. Plans from J. A. Snyder, of Beaver Falls, and F. C. Bate, of Cleveland were submitted, but the men were not present personally.

The Price Varied

from $15,000 to $25,000. Some plans included heating, others did not. Brick and frame building plans were submitted, and one architect furnished plans for a 10 room building to be built on the same ground as an 8 room building.

Took No Action.

All the members began to feel sleepy, and Dr. J. C. Taggart thought it would be a good idea to adjourn to meet Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at which time the matter will be settled. It is very likely the plans of an Ohio man will be selected.

A., military attaché of the United States embassy at London, and many princes and princesses were present on the famous plains of Aldershot to witness a review of over 18,000 of the best troops in the kingdom.

This review was interpreted in London as a means of satisfying Queen Victoria that her troops are ready for any emergency they may be called upon to meet, in the Transvaal or elsewhere.

Nearly all of the foreign military attaches were present and a profound impression was made upon them. The enthusiasm of the crowds was intense and the queen smiled approbation as each command came immediately under her eye.

Colonel Sumner and the other attaches characterized it as one of the finest reviews withing their experience.

GERMANY AGAIN OBJECTS.

The railroad company was to let the contract for the work Saturday, but whether McNally got the work could not be verified. "LED BY THE NOSE."
Did you note the number of men responding to Councilman Smith's accusation the other day? "A guilty conscience needs no reminder."

UP TO THEM.
The next move in the police cases is now up to council. The mayor's position is plain, unmistakable and absolutely justifiable. He has filed most specific charges and has suspended the officers pending trial by council, according to law. He has firmly and positively refused to give away his evidence until the proper time--when the trial begins and witnesses are called. He has done all that is required of him, and has fulfilled the law to the letter. Council meets tonight and it is their move.
Will they also obey the law and proceed with the trial? Will they do what is required of them and what is expected of them by their constituents? Will they do their duty or shirk it?

SIGNIFICANT.
"McKinley's Overthrow Hoped For.
Filipinos Believe That Then Will Follow Independence for Them." This is a headline in the Democratic and anti-expansionist Pittsburg Post today. It is significant. It is more. It is a text and a political sermon in itself. It is a warning and a rebuke to all those, who, like the Post, are clamoring against the President and the policy of the government. It shows by their own confession that their agitation is giving comfort, hope and aid to the enemy, and, worse than all, is encouraging the Filipinos to continue the hopeless struggle and is entailing the unnecessary loss of additional American troops and treasure, which would have been obviated had the country shown a

HOW IT WORKS.
When Officer Smith arrests John Jones for drunkenness and the mayor sets a time for the hearing, it is neither necessary nor customary for the officer to furnish Jones with a specified charge stating that he is accused of being drunk at 12:30½ a. m., June 25, 1899, on the southwest corner of Fourth and Washington, six feet north of the postoffice and thirteen feet nine inches west of the car tracks. These interesting details are reserved for the police hearing.
Yet Jones has just as much right to insist on being shown specific charges of this kind as have Whan and Grim. He too, may want to subpoena witnesses and, according to Dr. Marshall, would be unable to do so without specific charges. And he, too, has just as much right, according to counsel for Whan and Grim, to demand that the mayor shall dismiss the charges against him on the failure of the arresting officer to present such charges. Anything more absurd can scarcely be imagined-- even in council.

RIVER FALLING.
Navigation Will Be Suspended If It Continues at the Present Rate.
Among rivermen it was generally thought that the heavy rains which were general throughout this section Saturday night and early Sunday morning, would result in a barge stage, but the rise amounted to very little, and the river is falling. The stage was 4.6 feet.
Neither the owners of packets or coal-boats can understand exactly what became of all the water that fell. The general opinion is that the ground was parched and absorbed most of the rain.
The Kanawha is south tonight and the Virginia was up this afternoon.

TRIED TO DODGE AGENT LLOYD

But the Officer Was Suspicious and Proved Too Slick For the Stranger, Who Was Recaptured as He Was Heading For Chester and Liberty.

J. S. Drake, of Pennsylvania, arrived here this morning driving a horse and wagon. He had a stick for a whip with a long piece of pliable wire for a lash and used it freely. Every time he hit the horse he either cut the skin or raised great welts. Humane Agent Lloyd got after him and told him to come along.
Drake asked permission to unload first and promised to go around to Lloyd.
He failed to do so and instead made all haste for the bridge to get out of Lloyd's jurisdiction. The agent, however, had been suspicious and made for the bridge when Drake failed to appear, capturing the man in good style. The Pennsylvanian was given a hearing before Justice Hill and fined $5 and costs. If it had been possible he should have been fined $500. It was the most cruel and atrocious act witnessed here for a long time.

Abe Bernstein Heavily Fined,

TOTAL FINES AMOUNTED TO $83

Gotham and Pointon Were Charged With Entering and Loitering About a Saloon After Hours, While the Proprietor Was Charged With Keeping Open.

Mayor Bough last evening held a session of court at which more money was collected than there was for the past two weeks. The fines and costs in the several cases amounted to $83.60.

Abe Bernstein, against whom was a charge of keeping his saloon open after hours, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. He paid the amount and was released.

John Gotham and William Pointon, the men who were caught in the saloon yesterday morning were fined $10 and costs each. These amounts were paid and the men allowed to go.

No arrests were made during the night and the jail is now empty.

Mayor Bough is selecting his list of special officers who will serve during the carnival, and will have the list ready for the public within a few days.
In police court proceedings of last night, the name of "Joe Erbsstein" appeared as having had a saloon kept open after hours. The name should have been Abe Bernstein. Erbsstein is in the wholesale business, and Bernstein in the retail. Erbsstein and Bernstein were formerly associated as partners in the liquor business, and in this manner last night's mistake was made. We gladly make the correction.

Several law books were added to the mayor's office this morning. The books were ordered several weeks ago but did not arrive until this morning.

"LED BY THE NOSE."

Did you note the number of men responding to Councilman Smith's accusation the other day? "A guilty conscience needs no reminder."

UP TO THEM.

The next move in the police cases is now up to council. The mayor's position is plain, unmistakable and absolutely justifiable. He has filed most specific charges and has suspended the officers pending trial by council, according to law. He has firmly and positively refused to give away his evidence until the proper time--when the trial begins and witnesses are called. He has done all that is required of him, and has fulfilled the law to the letter. Council meets tonight and it is their move. Will they also obey the law and proceed with the trial? Will they do what is required of them and what is expected of them by their constituents? Will they do their duty or shirk it?

SIGNIFICANT.

"McKinley's Overthrow Hoped For. Filipinos Believe That Then Will Follow Independence for Them." This is a headline in the Democratic and anti-expansionist Pittsburg Post today. It is significant. It is more. It is a text and a political sermon in itself. It is a warning and a rebuke to all those, who, like the Post, are clamoring against the President and the policy of the government. It shows by their own confession that their agitation is giving comfort, hope and aid to the enemy, and, worse than all, is encouraging the Filipinos to continue the hopeless struggle and is entailing the unnecessary loss of additional American troops and treasure, which would have been obviated had the country shown a unanimous and united determination to stand by the soldiers and sailors in the Orient and their government at home.

HOW IT WORKS.

When Officer Smith arrests John Jones for drunkenness and the mayor sets a time for the hearing, it is neither necessary nor customary for the officer to furnish Jones with a specified charge stating that he is accused of being drunk at 12:30½ a. m., June 25, 1899, on the southwest corner of Fourth and Washington, six feet north of the postoffice and thirteen feet nine inches west of the car tracks. These interesting details are reserved for the police hearing.

Yet Jones has just as much right to insist on being shown specific charges of this kind as have Whan and Grim. He too, may want to subpoena witnesses and, according to Dr. Marshall, would be unable to do so without specific charges. And he, too, has just as much right, according to counsel for Whan and Grim, to demand that the mayor shall dismiss the charges against him on the failure of the arresting officer to present such charges. Anything more absurd can scarcely be imagined--even in council.

RIVER FALLING.

Navigation Will Be Suspended If It Continues at the Present Rate.

Among rivermen it was generally thought that the heavy rains which were general throughout this section Saturday night and early Sunday morning, would result in a barge stage, but the rise amounted to very little, and the river is falling. The stage was 4.6 feet. Neither the owners of packets or coal-boats can understand exactly what became of all the water that fell. The general opinion is that the ground was parched and absorbed most of the rain.

Gotham and Pointon Were Charged With Entering and Loitering About a Saloon After Hours. While the Proprietor Was Charged With Keeping Open.

Mayor Bough last evening held a session of court at which more money was collected than there was for the past two weeks. The fines and costs in the several cases amounted to $83.60.

Abe Bernstein, against whom was a charge of keeping his saloon open after hours, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. He paid the amount and was released.

John Gotham and William Pointon, the men who were caught in the saloon yesterday morning were fined $10 and costs each. These amounts were paid and the men allowed to go.

No arrests were made during the night and the jail is now empty.

Mayor Bough is selecting his list of special officers who will serve during the carnival, and will have the list ready for the public within a few days.

In police court proceedings of last night, the name of "Joe Erbstein" appeared as having had a saloon kept open after hours. The name should have been Abe Bernstein. Erbstein is in the wholesale business, and Bernstein in the retail. Erbstein and Bernstein were formerly associated as partners in the liquor business, and in this manner last night's mistake was made. We gladly make the correction.

Several law books were added to the mayor's office this morning. The books were ordered several weeks ago but did not arrive until this morning.

J. S. Drake, of Pennsylvania, arrived here this morning driving a horse and wagon. He had a stick for a whip with a long piece of pliable wire for a lash and used it freely. Every time he hit the horse he either cut the skin or raised great welts. Humane Agent Lloyd got after him and told him to come along. Drake asked permission to unload first and promised to go around to Lloyd. He failed to do so and instead made all haste for the bridge to get out of Lloyd's jurisdiction. The agent, however, had been suspicious and made for the bridge when Drake failed to appear, capturing the man in good style. The Pennsylvanian was given a hearing before Justice Hill and fined $5 and costs. If it had been possible he should have been fined $500. It was the most cruel and atrocious act witnessed here for a long time.

LATEST PIPE DREAM

Inside Story of the Failure of Sewer Pipe Trust.

ALL WANTED THE BEST OF IT

Promoter Dos Passos Wanted to Know
Where He Came In and Only Saw Where
He Went Out--Another Attempt May Be Made, but Nothing Is Definitely Planned.

An Akron dispatch says the sewer pipe trust has vanished. The reason given is that the common stock to be issued was at the bottom of the trust's undoing.

A few weeks ago the negotiations in
New York were in fine shape. The options of all the plants had been secured, and a basis of settlement had been reached.

Dos Passos, the promoter of the trust,
was to be paid a good slice of the common stock if the deal went through, but asked for cash instead. The smaller firms taken in, hearing of this, imagined
Dos Passos was afraid of the common stock, and they too, became timid, and began to back out. That was the end.
The promoter is said to have lost $15,000
by the failure of the deal.

Another attempt may be made, but nothing definite has been planned.

ELKS AT WHEELING.

What the Papers There Said
About the Delegation
From This City.

The Wheeling papers speak highly of the delegation from East Liverpool lodge, No. 256, B. P. O. E., which took part in the parade at the opening of the carnival there yesterday.

The News says: "The East Liverpool lodge came next. They arrived at Bridgeport at half-past 10 o'clock and were brought to Wheeling with Meister's band and given the right of way in the parade. The East Liverpool boys were properly uniformed, and while not large in numbers made an excellent appearance."

Settled Out of Court.

LISBON, June 27.—[Special]—The following cases have been settled: Wilfred R. Donaldson versus Albert M. Litchberger; the Vaughn Bonsall company

Shontz versus Anthony Lebus; Charles G. Stroube versus J. F. Billingsley; Shan Burbick versus George Bowland and wife; Denver Williams versus George L. Bowland and others.

A Mark Twain Story.

Apropos of the Portuguese reis (pronounced rays), when Mark Twain visited Fayal some years ago one of his companions invited him to dine, with eight others, at the principal hotel in that happy island. As soon as the cloth was removed and the wine placed on the table the host called for the bill, which amounted to 21,700 reis.

"Go, leave me to my misery, boys!"
ejaculated the unhappy man. "There isn't money enough in the ship to pay
that bill. I am a ruined community.
Landlord, this is a mean swindle.
Here's $150, and it's all you'll get. I'll swim in blood before I'll pay a cent
more."

The landlord looked surprised, but immediately had his little account
translated "into a language that a Christian could understand," when it was found that, at the rate of 1,000
reis to a dollar, the demand actually amounted to $21.70. More refreshments were ordered forthwith.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Penalty of Knowledge.

"It seems to me," remarked the high browed theorist, "that people positively

himself as much as possible."

"Perhaps you are right," answered
Miss Cayenne. "When a man knows
such a very great deal, he makes one apprehensive. There is no telling when he may be going to sit down and try to tell it all."—Washington Star

LATEST PIPE DREAM

Inside Story of the Failure of Sewer Pipe Trust.

ALL WANTED THE BEST OF IT

Promoter Dos Passos Wanted to Know
Where He Came In and Only Saw Where
He Went Out--Another Attempt May Be
Made, but Nothing Is Definitely Planned.

An Akron dispatch says the sewer
pipe trust has vanished. The reason given is that the common stock to be issued was at the bottom of the trust's undoing.

A few weeks ago the negotiations in
New York were in fine shape. The options of all the plants had been secured,
and a basis of settlement had been reached.

Dos Passos, the promoter of the trust,
was to be paid a good slice of the common stock if the deal went through, but asked for cash instead. The smaller
firms taken in, hearing of this, imagined
Dos Passos was afraid of the common stock, and they too, became timid, and began to back out. That was the end.
The promoter is said to have lost $15,000
by the failure of the deal.

Another attempt may be made, but nothing definite has been planned.

The News says: "The East Liverpool
lodge came next. They arrived at Bridgeport at half-past 10 o'clock and
were brought to Wheeling with Meister's band and given the right of way in
the parade. The East Liverpool boys were properly uniformed, and while not large in numbers made an excellent appearance."

A Mark Twain Story.

Apropos of the Portuguese reis (pronounced rays), when Mark Twain visited Fayal some years ago one of his companions invited him to dine, with eight others, at the principal hotel in
that happy island. As soon as the cloth
was removed and the wine placed on the table the host called for the bill,
which amounted to 21,700 reis.

"Go, leave me to my misery, boys!"
ejaculated the unhappy man. "There
isn't money enough in the ship to pay
that bill. I am a ruined community.
Landlord, this is a mean swindle.
Here's $150, and it's all you'll get. I'll swim in blood before I'll pay a cent
more."

The landlord looked surprised, but immediately had his little account
translated "into a language that a Christian could understand," when it
was found that, at the rate of 1,000
reis to a dollar, the demand actually amounted to $21.70. More refreshments were ordered forthwith.--Cincinnati

A Penalty of Knowledge.

"It seems to me," remarked the high
browed theorist, "that people positively resent education. A man who is more than ordinarily wise is usually left to

himself as much as possible."

"Perhaps you are right," answered
Miss Cayenne. "When a man knows
such a very great deal, he makes one apprehensive. There is no telling when he may be going to sit down and try to tell it all."--Washington Star.

Cheering Him Up.

"It very seldom happens," said Mr.
Stormington Barnes. "that we are permitted to adopt the career for which we are ambitious in youth. I always wanted to be a comedian and make people laugh."

"Dear me," said the sympathetic young girl. "You ought not to be so disappointed. I'm sure. You make people laugh very often as it is."--Washington Star.

BOOK BY JESSE JAMES.

Son of the Famous Bandit Becomes His Father's Historian.

FIRST AND ONLY TRUE STORY.

Young Author Declares All Others Are Tissues of Falsehood—Says He Did It All Himself—Wants the World to Know the Truth About Jesse James, Sr.

"Jesse James, My Father—The Only True Story of His Adventures Ever Written." This is the title of a book written by Jesse James, Jr., which has just made its appearance. The front outside cover bears a half tone picture of the author, and the back cover is devoted to a display advertisement of a "famous 5 cent cigar," which bears the author's name.

Young James sends the following letter to the Kansas City Times, together with an autograph copy of his book:

City Editor Times:
Dear Sir—I send you herewith a copy of a book I have written and just published. Anything you choose to say about it will be satisfactory to me. In the preface I state my reasons for writing it. I wrote every word in it myself, without help from any one, except that after it was written from Mr. Groves of the Independence Sentinel, who printed it, looked it over and punctuated the mistakes I made in grammar and punctuation. I am not a college graduate, so the public will pardon any mistakes in the book. You have my permission to use any part of the book you see fit in The Times. Yours sincerely, JESSE E. JAMES.

The author quotes from "Noted Guerrillas," by Major John N. Edwards, before he dashes off his preface, as follows:

"It required indeed all the excesses of the civil war of 1861-5 to produce the genuine American guerrilla—more enterprising by far, more deadly, more capable of immense physical endurance, more fitted by nature for deeds of reckless hardihood and given over to less penitence or pleading when face to face with the final end than any French, Spanish, Italian or Mexican guerrilla notorious in song or story. He simply lived the life that was in him and took the worst or best as it came and fate decreed it. Circumstances made him unsparing and not any predisposition in race or rearing. Fought first with fire, he fought back with the torch, and, branded as an outlaw first in despite of all reason, he made the infamous badge a birthright and boasted of it as a blood red inheritance while flaunting it in the face of a civilization which denounced the criminals while condoning the crimes that made them such."

The young author gives his reasons for writing the book in his preface which follows:

"Hundreds of different books have been written and published about Jesse James and what is commonly known as 'the James band.' Many of these books were false from cover to cover. A few had a grain or two of truth upon which were strung whole chapters of untruths. I have read them all, and there is not one of them that did not do a cruel injustice to the memory of my father and his family. In none of these books and in none of the thousands of newspaper articles that have been written about him have I yet seen him credited with having in his nature any of the human attributes of kindness, charity or honesty of purpose. In all of these writings his true character is entirely lost sight of and distorted into that of a veritable Frankenstein, who slew mercilessly and robbed for the mere love of adventure."

"This is because these writings were done by those who never knew my father. I defy the world to show that he ever slew a human being except in the protection of his own life or as a soldier in honorable warfare. His only brother, whose name was linked with his in all the years of his life, is a free man today, acquitted of all crime. There were lovable and noble traits in the character of my father, else why was it that for 16 long years, when there was a price on his head that would have made the betrayer rich, not one could be found who would betray him? Did ever a man live who had such staunch friends, many of whom were persecuted and made to suffer because of the steadfastness of their loyalty to him? Is it possible that an ignoble character could win and hold such friendship?"

"My object in writing this book is twofold. Thousands have asked me why I did not write such a book and promised to buy one if I did write it. If all of these keep their promise, it will have been a good business venture for me. One of my objects, then, in writing this book is in the hope it will bring some money for the support of my mother. My other object in writing it is to do something to correct the false impressions that the public have about the character of my father. Others may differ from me on this point, but I believe it my duty to the memory of my father that the truth about him be told. I make no claim to literary merit in this book. I have had little time in my life to go to school. In the years that boys usually spend in school I was at work earning wages for the support of my widowed mother and the education of my fatherless sister. I have tried to make this book a straightforward account of the things I write about as I see them."

In closing the author says "I have had an uphill fight. I ask the public to give me the credit of having worthy motives and of being desirous of succeeding in the world as a business man and a good citizen of the good old state of Missouri, on whose soil my father fought, bled and suffered as few men fought and few men suffered for the lost cause."

FOR PARIS EXPOSITION.

Colorado Will Send Solid Gold Nugget Model of Pike's Peak.

The commissioners in charge of the Colorado gold exhibit at the Paris exposition have decided to send a solid gold nugget miniature of Pike's peak of $1,000,000 value.

As a ton of gold is worth $602,928.50, the nugget will weigh about 1.23 tons. It will reach New York city under guard in a special car, and thence the government will convey it to Paris. The exposition commissioners have guaranteed its safe return.

The ore of the nugget represents nearly all the big producers of the state, the Cripple Creek mines being in the lead. Definite arrangements have not yet been made for casting the nugget. The ore which is in hand can be melted at the Philadelphia smelter at Pueblo, even if the smelter strike continues. Considerable artistic skill will be necessary to shape the nugget so as to represent the 40 acres of huge square boulders that cover the summit of Pike's peak. The canyons and general contour of the great mountain will require study and skill to fashion properly.

It is purposed to duplicate the mountain in its natural features, the New York Herald, so that hundreds of thousands of visitors to its summit will recognize it in the nugget. The signal station on the summit, a squat building only 18 feet high, but perhaps 40 long and 15 wide, will appear. Climbing up Engelman's canyon will appear the famous cog road, with perhaps an engine and a coach, the regulation train on the highest railroad in the world.

A matrix may be prepared in the detail to show all these things, or skill in sculpture may be used in shaping the nugget from various minor castings. The work was to have been done in Denver at once, and the special train carrying the nugget mountain might have started for New York city in 30 days but for the strike.

POISONED MAN'S ORDEAL.

One of the most thrilling and unusual stories on record at Atlanta develops out of the action of Gus Keisler, near that city, in taking accidentally an overdose of Paris green. The young man lives three miles from Atlanta. The other morning, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he arose early, and, wanting a cup of coffee, picked up a mug on a nearby table, which contained a dark brown mixture, and, supposing it to be coffee, he filled the cup and drank the contents at a gulp. He soon felt dizzy, and was informed that he had taken a heavy dose of Paris green. He sprang on the back of a horse and commenced a furious race to Atlanta.

The powerful poison began to exert its effect, and he reeled in his saddle, while houses and trees swayed and rocked like a ship in a storm. He suffered fearful mental and physical agony, and finally dropped unconscious from the flying steed, after covering two miles. In a few minutes he was picked up and taken into a neighbor's house. He was restored to consciousness, although his recovery is not certain. The physicians say that only his strong will kept him alive while on the horse, as he had absorbed enough of the poison to destroy three men.

CIGARS IN HIS WOODEN LEG.

Convict Has a Hollow and Useful Artificial Member.

All records in the state penitentiary at Columbus, O., for ingenuity on the part of convicts to fool the prison officials were beaten the other day when it was discovered that cigars were being stolen by the hundreds from the prison cigar factory.

An investigation was ordered, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and it resulted in the discovery, so it is said, that John Thomas, a one legged prisoner, was doing most of the thieving. He wears a wooden leg. He had carved it out so that it was hollow, and in this each day he would conceal the cigars he managed to hold out right under the nose of the guard. About 15 other prisoners were implicated in the robbery.

FINE JOB WORK.

The News rooms are the best equipped in eastern Ohio, and we are consequently able to turn out large quantities of work on short notice.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

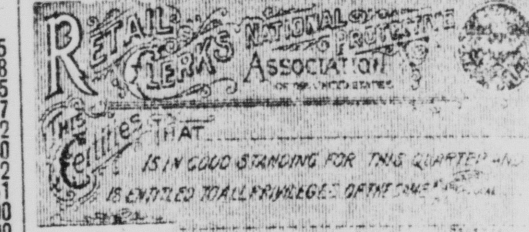

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

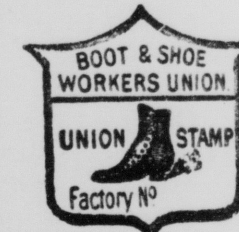

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card Ask for it when making your purchases.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE. COLOR IS GUARANTEED EACH QUARTER.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

BOOK BY JESSE JAMES.

Son of the Famous Bandit Becomes His Father's Historian.

FIRST AND ONLY TRUE STORY.

Young Author Declares All Others Are Tissues of Falsehood—Says He Did It All Himself—Wants the World to Know the Truth About Jesse James, Sr.

"Jesse James, My Father—The Only True Story of His Adventures Ever Written." This is the title of a book written by Jesse James, Jr., which has just made its appearance. The front outside cover bears a half tone picture of the author, and the back cover is devoted to a display advertisement of a "famous 5 cent cigar," which bears the author's name.

Young James sends the following letter to the Kansas City Times, together with an autograph copy of his book:

Dear Sir—I send you herewith a copy of a book I have written and just published. Anything you choose to say about it will be satisfactory to me. In the preface I state my reasons for writing it. I wrote every word in it myself, without help from any one, except that after it was written from Mr. Groves of the Independence Sentinel, who printed it, looked it over and corrected the mistakes I made in grammar and punctuation. I am not a college graduate, so the public will pardon any mistakes in the book. You have my permission to use any part of the book you see fit in The Times. Yours sincerely, JESSE E. JAMES.

The author quotes from "Noted Guerrillas," by Major John N. Edwards, before he dashes off his preface, as follows:

"It required indeed all the excesses of the civil war of 1861-5 to produce the genuine American guerrilla—more enterprising by far, more deadly, more capable of immense physical endurance, more fitted by nature for deeds of reckless hardihood and given over to less penitence or pleading when face to face with the final end than any French, Spanish, Italian or Mexican guerrilla notorious in song or story. He simply lived the life that was in him and took the worst or best as it came and fate decreed it. Circumstances made him unsparing and not any predisposition in race or rearing. Fought first with fire, he fought back with the torch, and, branded as an outlaw first in despite of all reason, he made the infamous badge a birthright and boasted of it as a blood red inheritance while flaunting it in the face of a civilization which denounced the criminals while condoning the crimes that made them such."

The young author gives his reasons for writing the book in his preface, which follows:

"Hundreds of different books have been written and published about Jesse James and what is commonly known as 'the James band.' Many of these books were false from cover to cover. A few had a grain or two of truth upon which were strung whole chapters of untruths. I have read them all, and there is not one of them that did not do a cruel injustice to the memory of my father and his family. In none of these books and in none of the thousands of newspaper articles that have been written about him have I yet seen him credited with having in his nature any of the human attributes of kindness, charity or honesty of purpose. In all of these writings his true character is entirely lost sight of and distorted into that of a veritable Frankenstein, who slew mercilessly and robbed for the mere love of adventure."

"This is because these writings were done by those who never knew my father. I defy the world to show that he ever slew a human being except in the protection of his own life or as a soldier in honorable warfare. His only brother, whose name was linked with his in all the years of his life, is a free man today, acquitted of all crime. There were lovable and noble traits in the character of my father, else why was it that for 16 long years, when there was a price on his head that would have made the betrayer rich, not one could be found who would betray him? Did ever a man live who had such staunch friends, many of whom were persecuted and made to suffer because of the steadfastness of their loyalty to him? Is it possible that an ignoble character could win and hold such friendship?"

"My object in writing this book is twofold. Thousands have asked me why I did not write such a book and promised to buy one if I did write it. If all of these keep their promise, it will have been a good business venture for me. One of my objects, then, in writing this book is in the hope it will bring some money for the support of my mother. My other object in writing it is to do something to correct the false impressions that the public have about the character of my father. Others may differ from me on this point, but I believe it my duty to the memory of my father that the truth about him be told. I make no claim to literary merit in this book. I have had little time in my life to go to school. In the years that boys usually spend in school I was at work earning wages for the support of my widowed mother and the education of my fatherless sister. I have tried to make this book a straightforward account of the things I write about as I see them."

In closing the author says "I have had an uphill fight. I ask the public to give me the credit of having worthy motives and of being desirous of succeeding in the world as a business man and a good citizen of the good old state of Missouri, on whose soil my father fought, bled and suffered as few men fought and few men suffered for the last cause."

FOR PARIS EXPOSITION.

Colorado Will Send Solid Gold Nugget Model of Pike's Peak.

The commissioners in charge of the Colorado gold exhibit at the Paris exposition have decided to send a solid gold nugget miniature of Pike's peak of $1,000,000 value.

As a ton of gold is worth $602,928.50, the nugget will weigh about 1 2/3 tons. It will reach New York city under guard in a special car, and thence the government will convey it to Paris. The exposition commissioners have guaranteed its safe return.

The ore of the nugget represents nearly all the big producers of the state, the Cripple Creek mines being in the lead. Definite arrangements have not yet been made for casting the nugget. The ore which is in hand can be smelted at the Philadelphia smelter at Pueblo, even if the smelter strike continues. Considerable artistic skill will be necessary to shape the nugget so as to represent the 40 acres of huge square boulders that cover the summit of Pike's peak. The canyons and general contour of the great mountain will require study and skill to fashion properly.

It is proposed to duplicate the mountain in its natural features, says the New York Herald, so that hundreds of thousands of visitors to its summit will recognize it in the nugget. The signal station on the summit, a squat building only 18 feet high, but perhaps 40 long and 15 wide, will appear. Climbing up Engelman's canyon will appear the famous cog road, with perhaps an engine and a coach, the regulation train on the highest railroad in the world.

A matrix may be prepared in the detail to show all these things, or skill in sculpture may be used in shaping the nugget from various minor castings. The work was to have been done in Denver at once, and the special train carrying the nugget mountain might have started for New York city in 30 days but for the strike.

POISONED MAN'S ORDEAL.

One of the most thrilling and unusual stories on record at Atlanta develops out of the action of Gus Keisler, near that city, in taking accidentally an overdose of Paris green. The young man lives three miles from Atlanta. The other morning, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he arose early, and, wanting a cup of coffee, picked up a mug on a nearby table, which contained a dark brown mixture, and, supposing it to be coffee, he filled the cup and drank the contents at a gulp. He soon felt dizzy, and was informed that he had taken a heavy dose of Paris green. He sprang on the back of a horse and commenced a furious race to Atlanta.

The powerful poison began to exert its effect, and he reeled in his saddle, while houses and trees swayed and rocked like a ship in a storm. He suffered fearful mental and physical agony, and finally dropped unconscious from the flying steed, after covering two miles. In a few minutes he was picked up and taken into a neighbor's house. He was restored to consciousness, although his recovery is not certain. The physicians say that only his strong will kept him alive while on the horse, as he had absorbed enough of the poison to destroy three men.

CIGARS IN HIS WOODEN LEG.

Convict Has a Hollow and Useful Artificial Member.

All records in the state penitentiary at Columbus, O., for ingenuity on the part of convicts to fool the prison officials were beaten the other day when it was discovered that cigars were being stolen by the hundreds from the prison cigar factory.

An investigation was ordered, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and it resulted in the discovery, so it is said, that John Thomas, a one legged prisoner, was doing most of the stealing. He wears a wooden leg. He had carved it out so that it was hollow, and in this each day he would conceal the cigars he managed to hold out right under the nose of the guard. About 15 other prisoners were implicated in the robbery.

BOOK BY JESSE JAMES.

Son of the Famous Bandit Becomes His Father's Historian.

FIRST AND ONLY TRUE STORY.

Young Author Declares All Others Are Tissues of Falseness—Says He Did It All Himself—Wants the World to Know the Truth About Jesse James, Sr.

"Jesse James, My Father—The Only True Story of His Adventures Ever Written." This is the title of a book written by Jesse James, Jr., which has just made its appearance. The front outside cover bears a half tone picture of the author, and the back cover is devoted to a display advertisement of a "famous 5 cent cigar," which bears the author's name.

Young James sends the following letter to the Kansas City Times, together with an autograph copy of his book:

City Editor Times:
Dear Sir—I send you herewith a copy of a book I have written and just published. Anything you choose to say about it will be satisfactory to me. In the preface I state my reasons for writing it. I wrote every word in it myself, without help from any one, except that after it was written Mr. Groves of the Independence Sentinel, who printed it, looked it over and corrected the mistakes I made in grammar and punctuation. I am not a college graduate, so the public will pardon any mistakes in the book. You have my permission to use any part of the book you see fit in The Times. Yours sincerely, JESSE E. JAMES.

The author quotes from "Noted Guerrillas," by Major John N. Edwards, before he dashes off his preface, as follows:

"It required indeed all the excesses of the civil war of 1861-5 to produce the genuine American guerrilla—more enterprising by far, more deadly, more capable of immense physical endurance, more fitted by nature for deeds of reckless hardihood and given over to less penitence or pleading when face to face with the final end than any French, Spanish, Italian or Mexican guerrilla notorious in song or story. He simply lived the life that was in him and took the worst or best as it came and fate decreed it. Circumstances made him unsparing and not any predisposition in race or rearing. Fought first with fire, he fought back with the torch, and, branded as an outlaw first in spite of all reason, he made the infamous badge a birthright and boasted of it as a blood red inheritance while flaunting it in the face of a civilization which denounced the criminals while condoning the crimes that made them such."

The young author gives his reasons for writing the book in his preface, which follows:

"Hundreds of different books have been written and published about Jesse James and what is commonly known as 'the James band.' Many of these books were false from cover to cover. A few had a grain or two of truth upon which were strung whole chapters of untruths. I have read them all, and there is not one of them that did not do a cruel injustice to the memory of my father and his family. In none of these books and in none of the thousands of newspaper articles that have been written about him have I yet seen him credited with having in his nature any of the human attributes of kindness, charity or honesty of purpose. In all of these writings his true character is entirely lost sight of and distorted into that of a veritable Frankenstein, who slew mercilessly and robbed for the mere love of adventure."

"This is because these writings were done by those who never knew my father. I defy the world to show that he ever slew a human being except in the protection of his own life or as a soldier in honorable warfare. His only brother, whose name was linked with his in all the years of his life, is a free man today, acquitted of all crime. There were lovable and noble traits in the character of my father, else why was it that for 16 long years, when there was a price on his head that would have made the betrayer rich, not one could be found who would betray him? Did ever a man live who had such staunch friends, many of whom were persecuted and made to suffer because of the steadfastness of their loyalty to him? Is it possible that an ignoble character could win and hold such friendship?"

"My object in writing this book is twofold. Thousands have asked me why I did not write such a book and promised to buy one if I did write it. If all of these keep their promise, it will have been a good business venture for me. One of my objects, then, in writing this book is in the hope it will bring some money for the support of my mother. My other object in writing it is to do something to correct the false impressions that the public have about the character of my father. Others may differ from me on this point, but I believe it my duty to the memory of my father that the truth about him be told. I make no claim to literary merit in this book. I have had little time in my life to go to school. In the years that boys usually spend in school I was at work earning wages for the support of my widowed mother and the education of my fatherless sister. I have tried to make this book a straightforward account of the things I write about as I see them."

had an uphill fight. I ask the public to give me the credit of having worthy motives and of being desirous of succeeding in the world as a business man and a good citizen of the good old state of Missouri, on whose soil my father fought, bled and suffered as few men fought and few men suffered for 'the lost cause.'"

FOR PARIS EXPOSITION.

Colorado Will Send Solid Gold Nugget Model of Pike's Peak.

The commissioners in charge of the Colorado gold exhibit at the Paris exposition have decided to send a solid gold nugget miniature of Pike's peak of $1,000,000 value.

As a ton of gold is worth $602,928.50, the nugget will weigh about 1 2/3 tons. It will reach New York city under guard in a special car, and thence the government will convey it to Paris. The exposition commissioners have guaranteed its safe return.

The ore of the nugget represents nearly all the big producers of the state, the Cripple Creek mines being in the lead. Definite arrangements have not yet been made for casting the nugget. The ore which is in hand can be smelted at the Philadelphia smelter at Pueblo, even if the smelter strike continues. Considerable artistic skill will be necessary to shape the nugget so as to represent the 40 acres of huge square boulders that cover the summit of Pike's peak. The canyons and general contour of the great mountain will require study and skill to fashion properly.

It is proposed to duplicate the mountain in its natural features, says the New York Herald, so that hundreds of thousands of visitors to its summit will recognize it in the nugget. The signal station on the summit, a squat building only 18 feet high, but perhaps 40 long and 15 wide, will appear. Climbing up Engelmann's canyon will appear the famous cog road, with perhaps an engine and a coach, the regulation train on the highest railroad in the world.

A matrix may be prepared in the detail to show all these things, or skill in sculpture may be used in shaping the nugget from various minor castings. The work was to have been done in Denver at once, and the special train carrying the nugget mountain might have started for New York city in 30 days but for the strike.

POISONED MAN'S ORDEAL.

One of the most thrilling and unusual stories on record at Atlanta develops out of the action of Gus Keisler, near that city, in taking accidentally an overdose of Paris green. The young man lives three miles from Atlanta. The other morning, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he arose early, and, wanting a cup of coffee, picked up a mug on a nearby table, which contained a dark brown mixture, and, supposing it to be coffee, he filled the cup and drank the contents at a gulp. He soon felt dizzy, and was informed that he had taken a heavy dose of Paris green. He sprang on the back of a horse and commenced a furious race to Atlanta.

The powerful poison began to exert its effect, and he reeled in his saddle, while houses and trees swayed and rocked like a ship in a storm. He suffered fearful mental and physical agony, and finally dropped unconscious from the flying steed, after covering two miles. In a few minutes he was picked up and taken into a neighbor's house. He was restored to consciousness, although his recovery is not certain. The physicians say that only his strong will kept him alive while on the horse, as he had absorbed enough of the poison to destroy three men.

CIGARS IN HIS WOODEN LEG.

Convict Has a Hollow and Useful Artificial Member.

All records in the state penitentiary at Columbus, O., for ingenuity on the part of convicts to fool the prison officials were beaten the other day when it was discovered that cigars were being stolen by the hundreds from the prison cigar factory.

An investigation was ordered, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and it resulted in the discovery, so it is said, that John Thomas, a one legged prisoner, was doing most of the stealing. He wears a wooden leg. He had carved it out so that it was hollow, and in this each day he would conceal the cigars he managed to hold out right under the nose of the guard. About 15 other prisoners were implicated in the robbery.

PHILIPPINE VOLUNTEERS

Correspondent Tells Why They Are Sick of the Campaign.

NOT MANY LIKELY TO RE-ENLIST.

He Declares the Men Are Poorly Armed and Equipped and Overworked to Save Regulars—Work Which Will Have to Be Done All Over Again.

The New York Post's correspondent at Baling, P. I., writing under date of April 10 about the volunteers in the Philippines, says:

If Adjutant General Corbin had been here to see how the volunteers of the Eighth army corps received the interview he gave to the press late in March, he would have come to the conclusion that he was neither a prophet nor descended from one. General Corbin said that the volunteers were so anxious to stay here and fight that he believed there would be a riot if they were ordered home. There was an approach to a riot when the papers containing the interview were circulated throughout the camps, and if the troops are not ordered home soon some one will hear the opinion of the volunteers expressed in a loud voice.

It is a mistaken idea that the volunteers would rather stay here and fight than go home. Perhaps, if they felt that they had been properly treated and their fighting made effective, they might be willing to remain and finish the work, but feeling as they do—that they have been given the hard campaigning to do, while the regulars have been held in reserve; that they have been sent to the front with Springfields and black powder, while troops armed with Krag and smokeless powder are kept in Manila; that the reasons given for not arming them properly are untrue and silly—namely, that the volunteer does not know how to care for a gun of the complex mechanism of the Krag and is not a good enough shot to use a long range gun to advantage—that he has been rushed up against intrenchments to do the work artillery should perform; that practically no preparation for campaigning was made during the six months that the army lay in Manila, and we are now hampered in our movements by that lack of preparation, and because he sees very little practical outcome from all his fighting, under the policy of not hurting the enemy, which is now imposed upon the army—he is disgusted and ready to quit.

I am stating plainly the frame of mind of the volunteer. All the enthusiasm with which he went into the field when Aguinaldo threw down the gage of battle in February has oozed out of him, not that his courage is any the less nor that his patriotism has declined, but because he feels that he has been abused in the matter of equipment; that the fruits of his fighting are not being gathered, and that he is now being worked beyond his legitimate share, deliberately to save the regulars, on the principle followed by the man who rents a horse for a few days and gets all the work possible out of him before the time is up.

It is very flattering to his guide to be told that he is being used because he is a better soldier than the regular, has had more experience in fighting and is better acclimated; yet, while he knows this to be true, he naturally wonders why, if he is so good a soldier, he should be so poorly armed and cared for. He is not satisfied with the theory of the ordnance department, as expressed in an interview by the chief of ordnance at Washington, that he is not familiar with guns, and that the regular army is composed of sharpshooters, knowing, as he does, that 75 per cent of the volunteers were good rifle shots before they enlisted and have handled firearms from childhood, and that 80 per cent of the regular army here are raw recruits, who were not marksmen when they enlisted and have had none of the target practice the ordnance officer gives as the reason why the regulars are sharpshooters. He has little patience with a theory that is at such plain variance with the facts, especially if that theory results in sending him with a Springfield and black powder against a Mauser and smokeless powder.

For these reasons the volunteers in the Philippines are heartily sick of their job and are eager to be sent home. One cannot go through the camps without hearing it on every side. Every "hop" to the effect that the homeward movement will soon begin is received with cheers and a celebration. "Hop" is a contraction for "hop dream," as camp rumors are called. The boys used to sing:

"Oh, I don't know; it may be so,
But it sounds like a new hop dream."

But they have passed that stage now and simply inquire what is the latest "hop." They think that the policy of making the war as easy as possible for the enemy is wasting their energies and prolonging the struggle. Consequently they say that the army congress has voted for the government should be used for that purpose. They also say that they enlisted for the Spanish war and not to fight "niggers," and while they were perfectly willing, and even eager, to fight them so long as it was a patriotic duty to do so, owing to the fact that they were the only troops here, they feel that the necessity has passed, and that, had the government used half the energy in sending out regulars that was displayed in rushing poorly equipped volunteers out here, there would now be enough regulars here to relieve them. One hears these opinions expressed on every side and controverted nowhere.

From interviews in the papers, as well as from "pointers" received here from headquarters, it seems to be the opinion of the authorities that about two regiments can be recruited from among the volunteers here when they are sent home. Unofficially it has been given out that men who will enlist in the regular army for three years will be given $500 each in lieu of travel pay. So far as I can learn by talking with a large number of enlisted men, even this large bait will fail to catch many of them, though a few may be induced to enlist. So far as I can judge from hearing the opinions of the men, it will be difficult to re-enlist enough men for one battalion in the whole Eighth army corps, even on the $500 basis. The government will have to send new troops here if the war continues, as I think it will, since the time for campaigning has about drawn to a close, and the enemy is as active as ever, and apparently still has ample resources.

There is but one thing that will terminate the rebellion, and that is to render it impossible for the insurgents to continue it by destroying their supply of food, burning their strongholds and preventing them from obtaining new supplies of arms and ammunition. Until their arms are captured they are not subdued and peace assured, no matter how much of their country we temporarily occupy, how many towns and trenches we capture or how much we disperse their organized army, for they will reoccupy all towns and trenches we withdraw from, return to every foot of country the soldiers abandon, and their scattered army will come together again like iron filings drawn by a magnet. The policy of going through their country just to show that we are able to do so and leaving stocks of food undestroyed and their towns uninjured, thus assuring them food and shelter when they return to continue the struggle, is the one which makes the volunteer feel that his energy and blood are being wasted, and that such work should be done by an army enlisted for that purpose and armed with the weapons best adapted for it. It is a job for cavalry, light artillery and infantry armed with long range rifles and smokeless powder. Especially are cavalry and a better system of transportation in the field required, and these are our chief weaknesses at present.

In a few days active field work will be rendered impossible by rain. There will be enough regulars here by that time to do the garrison duty necessary, and the volunteers could then be sent home. During the rainy season the government could send here all the regulars and equipment necessary for carrying on the right kind of campaign as soon as the dry season sets in next December, should the insurgents not surrender before that time, as in all probability they will not do. The most important need is cavalry, mounted on better horses than the little Filipino ponies now used and supplied with better and more mobile transportation than that now at hand, with a larger number of light Hotchkiss or mountain guns.

At present General Lawton is at Baling, in Bulacan province, with two brigades, one of which is advanced seven miles on the road north to San Miguel, while General MacArthur is at Santo Tomas, in Pampanga province, on the railroad, with two brigades. The chief cities ahead are San Miguel, in front of Lawton, and San Isidro, the capital of Nueva Ecija province, and at present the temporary seat of the revolutionary government, equally distant from both columns. The ability of either one of these columns to advance without the simultaneous advance of the other is doubtful, since it might encounter practically the whole army of the enemy strongly intrenched. These two towns are the gateways to the famous mountain stronghold of Biacabato, and it is reasonable to suppose that at some point a determined stand would be made if our army advanced unless time is given to the insurgents to retire to their stronghold with supplies. Their chief incumbrance is their Spanish prisoners, whose cash value they have fixed at $7,000,000, and whom they will not give up until utterly unable longer to hold them.

It is found extremely difficult to keep Lawton's command supplied, though but 20 miles from the railroad, and the roads not yet severely damaged by the rains. To continue the advance, with the rains rapidly rendering the roads impassable and the rivers unfordable, would seem to be difficult, if not impossible. Had the campaign been pushed two months ago the rebels might have been reduced to the extremity of releasing their Spanish prisoners because of inability to care for them, but to my mind it is too late in the season for that now. As soon as the army retires the natives, armed and unarmed, will return, and the work of the campaign will be largely nullified. From what we learn that the Filipino soldiers are being paid regularly every month, a condition of affairs superior to that existing in the Spanish army where many of them served. They receive $8 Mexican, equal to $4 gold and are perfectly satisfied. This indicates a treasury not yet exhausted. Possibly it suggests extraneous financial aid for diplomatic purposes. At all events it shows that, so long as we leave them food and shelter, they have the means for continuing the struggle.

His Handy Valise.

An old friend of the late ex-Governor Oglesby tells a reminiscence of a valise. He was traveling through the state and met the governor on the train.

When they were seated, the governor drew out a valise that had a peculiar and handy way of being opened from the top. It was made of strong leather and had tags pasted all over it.

"I carried this valise through the Holy Land," said the governor. "I think a great deal of it."

"I suppose it brings up some pleasant memories," suggested the other traveler.

"More than that," was the reply, and the keen eyes of the governor twinkled as he reached down and touched a button and the valise opened immediately, but cautiously, at the top. It opened wide enough to admit a hand and to permit it to withdraw with a black bottle in its clutch.

"This is a great valise. I can get a bottle out of it, and nobody ever sees me."

When the residence of ex-Governor Oglesby burned, all of his private papers of every sort and all of his war trophies were destroyed. A short time after he met this same peripatetic friend.

"It was a great loss you sustained, governor," he said.

"Yes, all my papers are gone. Sorry to lose them, too, and then my swords are gone too. I was sorry to lose them, and I know you'll be grieved to hear it—that valise was burned up. Yes, it's gone. Bob Ingersoll gave me that valise, and I did hate to lose it, it was so handy."—Chicago Tribune.

Clever Enough to Vote.

A keen witted fellow, despite his general ignorance, was brought down to the courthouse to receive the rights of citizenship.

"Name the capital of the nation," said the judge.

The applicant scratched his head. "I can't just place it, judge," he said, "but you name over a few of the towns and I'll tell you when you strike it."

"Is it Chicago?" queried the judge.

"No."

"Is it St. Louis?"

"No."

"Is it Arizona?"

"No."

"Is it Washington?"

The candidate looked puzzled. He hesitated.

"Say, judge," he slowly replied, "if that ain't the place it's a close shot!"

He got his papers.

Another candidate was brought in by a well known local politician.

"Let me see what you know about geography," said the judge. "Supposing you and Mr. Blank walked straight down to the lake and started across it, going due north, where would you land?"

"On the bottom," said the candidate promptly.

He got his papers too.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Where Soldiers Must Swim.

In the Dutch army a man must be able to swim as well as to fight. Moreover, if he is in the cavalry he must have a horse which will take a river as easily as a hunter takes a fence.

Swimming maneuvers are part of the regular drill there. Collapsible canvas boats, manned by a few oarsmen, lead the horses, so that they do not attempt to land on stone quays and other difficult points. The men swim across with their horses and on them. They do it in swimming costume and in all the accoutrements of war.

There are few nautical emergencies for which the Dutch army is not prepared. Some of the officers have even reached a degree of proficiency that not only their horses and kit cross the river with them, but their pet dogs sit upon their shoulders and are borne over almost without getting wet.—Stray Stories.

Trying It on a Dog.

The sultan of Turkey is most inquisitive as to what is said and written about him abroad. Every day translations are laid before him from the newspapers of the world, and these are all closely perused. His majesty, by the way, is a bad hand at suffering.

At one time he wanted to have an aching tooth removed and dared not. Eight slaves had molars drawn out in his presence that he might have an opportunity of judging the extent of suffering entailed, and finally the sultan decided that he would rather bear the pain than undergo such an ordeal.

How He Explains.

"How do you explain the phenomena upon which you base your new discovery?" asked the inquisitive friend.

"Why, I adopt the usual method. I use words so big as to prevent anybody who is not in the same business from undertaking to contradict me. And then if anybody objects, I can say it is professional jealousy."

FIRST IN MALOLOS.

How Funston's Brave Men Entered the Filipino Capital.

James J. Corkhill of Company E, Kansas Twentieth regiment, writes to the Alma (Kan.) Enterprise this account of how it happened that the flag of the Twentieth Kansas was the first to float over Malolos, the insurgent capital.

"We were halted in the shade just outside the city when Colonel Funston came galloping down the line and told our commander that the general wanted a few men to advance ahead of the lines to reconnoiter. Lieutenant Ball and 16 men from Company E were chosen, your correspondent happening to be one of the lucky number. We cautiously advanced into the outskirts of the town and wended our way up Main street (although we didn't know it was Main street), keeping as much as possible under cover of the bamboo shacks. We soon discovered that the negroes had breastworks thrown across the street and in front of the large Catholic church. Almost at the same time they saw us, and a volley of Mausers flew over our heads.

"Well," said Colonel Funston, "that's all the general wanted to know," but after he held a little confab with Lieutenant Ball they decided on a closer acquaintance with our dusky friends. "It's a little risky, but I think we can do it," said Colonel Funston. "Come on, boys; let's get them out of there!"

"So away we went up the street like a whirlwind, yelling and shooting and making racket enough to scare a whole army. Little Colonel Funston, with his revolver in one hand, was waving his hat in the other and yelling, 'Give it to them, boys, give it to them!' I guess the negroes thought that his satanic majesty was indeed after them, or that the whole American army was upon them, for, after firing a couple of volleys at us, they turned and ran as I never saw any one run before. On through the public square we chased them and clear to the other side of the town.

"Thus it was that 16 Kansas boys, led by our brave little colonel and a daring second lieutenant, drove the insurgents out of their capital city."

"An hour later, when we returned, we found that the army had poured in and filled the town, and our regiment was sitting in the shade of Aguinaldo's doorstep. Before leaving, the insurgents had succeeded in setting fire to the large church, which was now in flames. Many of the Chinese remained in the town, and when our little squad dashed into the public square it was amusing to see the 'Chenomen' crawling out of windows and cellars and from under bridges, each carrying a little white flag and shouting: 'Amego, amego! Chenomuch amego!'

HYDROGEN LIQUEFIED.

Remarkable Scientific Achievement of Professor Dewar of London.

The man of the hour in the scientific world is Professor Dewar of the Royal institution of London, who has liquefied hydrogen. According to the New York Journal, the professor said liquid hydrogen is a clear, colorless, transparent and very volatile fluid.

It is no clearer than pure water, but has only one-fourteenth of the density of water. In its lightness it is out of all proportion to any known liquid. A piece of paper when placed in it sinks. "The discovery," said Professor Dewar, "has cost many a weary night during the last ten years, and the amount of money spent upon it has been considerable. Still, I think it was worth it all."

"We have now got within 20 degrees of absolute zero, which is represented by 494 degrees F. and 273 degrees C. below zero. The boiling point of liquid hydrogen is 252 degrees below zero, at which it is capable of enormous pressure. Its practical utility, according to the average lay mind, no man can speak about yet. We have been studying for about 300 years the relations of matter and energy within a range of 800 degrees from absolute zero. Now we have reached another epoch, relatively another few hundred years are required to study the new conditions before speaking about 'practical utility.'"

"The world can well afford to devote at least 50 years to the new conditions, considering the time that has been spent on the old. The chief point to dwell upon is that a new agent of research has been introduced into the scientific world: a mightier instrument has been placed in our hands. Liquid air was hailed as a great discovery, but the difference between liquid hydrogen and liquid air is as great, if not greater, than the difference between the ordinary temperature and that of liquid air. My discovery must affect every problem of physics and chemistry."

"Hydrogen from time immemorial has been looked upon as a gas. It has now been proved to be a liquid. Electrical conductivity, photographic action and almost every chemical question will now have to be reconsidered in the light of new conditions from the science of hundreds of years ago in order to see the effect. Coronium, we believe, is a more volatile body. Whether we can ever get that matter in sufficient quantity to liquefy is another question, but if we can I am hopeful that we will get from it even a lower temperature than liquefied hydrogen provides."

PHILIPPINE VOLUNTEERS

Correspondent Tells Why They Are Sick of the Campaign.

NOT MANY LIKELY TO RE-ENLIST.

He Declares the Men Are Poorly Armed and Equipped and Overworked to Save Regulars—Work Which Will Have to Be Done All Over Again.

The New York Post's correspondent at Balinag, P. I., writing under date of April 10 about the volunteers in the Philippines, says:

If Adjutant General Corbin had been here to see how the volunteers of the Eighth army corps received the interview he gave to the press late in March, he would have come to the conclusion that he was neither a prophet nor descended from one. General Corbin said that the volunteers were so anxious to stay here and fight that he believed there would be a riot if they were ordered home. There was an approach to a riot when the papers containing the interview were circulated throughout the camps, and if the troops are not ordered home soon some one will hear the opinion of the volunteers expressed in a loud voice.

It is a mistaken idea that the volunteers would rather stay here and fight than go home. Perhaps, if they felt that they had been properly treated and their fighting made effective, they might be willing to remain and finish the work, but feeling as they do—that they have been given the hard campaigning to do, while the regulars have been held in reserve; that they have been sent to the front with Springfields and black powder, while troops armed with Krag and smokeless powder are kept in Manila; that the reasons given for not arming them properly are untrue and silly—namely, that the volunteer does not know how to care for a gun of the complex mechanism of the Krag and is not a good enough shot to use a long range gun to advantage—that he has been rushed up against intrenchments to do the work artillery should perform; that practically no preparation for campaigning was made during the six months that the army lay in Manila, and we are now hampered in our movements by that lack of preparation, and because he sees very little practical outcome from all his fighting, under the policy of not hurting the enemy, which is now imposed upon the army—he is disgusted and ready to quit.

I am stating plainly the frame of mind of the volunteer. All the enthusiasm with which he went into the field when Aguinaldo threw down the gage of battle in February has oozed out of him, not that his courage is any the less nor that his patriotism has declined, but because he feels that he has been abused in the matter of equipment; that the fruits of his fighting are not being gathered, and that he is now being worked beyond his legitimate share, deliberately to save the regulars, on the principle followed by the man who rents a horse for a few days and gets all the work possible out of him before the time is up.

It is very flattering to his guide to be told that he is being used because he is a better soldier than the regular, has had more experience in fighting and is better acclimated; yet, while he knows this to be true, he naturally wonders why, if he is so good a soldier, he should be so poorly armed and cared for. He is not satisfied with the theory of the ordnance department, as expressed in an interview by the chief of ordnance at Washington, that he is not familiar with guns, and that the regular army is composed of sharpshooters, knowing, as he does, that 75 per cent of the volunteers were good rifle shots before they enlisted and have handled firearms from childhood, and that 80 per cent of the regular army here are raw recruits, who were not marksmen when they enlisted and have had none of the target practice the ordnance officer gives as the reason why the regulars are sharpshooters. He has little patience with a theory that is at such plain variance with the facts, especially if that theory results in sending him with a Springfield and black powder against a Mauser and smokeless powder.

For these reasons the volunteers in the Philippines are heartily sick of their job and are eager to be sent home. One cannot go through the camps without hearing it on every side. Every "hop" to the effect that the homeward movement will soon begin is received with cheers and a celebration. "Hop" is a contraction for "hop dream," as camp rumors are called. The boys used to sing:

"Oh, I don't know; it may be so, But it sounds like a new hop dream."

But they have passed that stage now and simply inquire what is the latest "hop." They think that the policy of making the war as easy as possible for the enemy is wasting their energies and prolonging the struggle. Consequently they say that the army congress has voted to the government should be used for that purpose. They also say that they enlisted for the Spanish war and not to fight "niggers," and while they were perfectly willing, and even eager, to fight them so long as it was a patriotic duty to do so, owing to the fact that they were the only troops here, they feel that the necessity has passed, and that, had the government used half the energy in sending out regulars that was displayed in rushing poorly equipped volunteers out here, there would now be enough regulars here to relieve them. One hears these opinions expressed on every side and controverted nowhere.

From interviews in the papers, as well as from "pointers" received here from headquarters, it seems to be the opinion of the authorities that about two regiments can be recruited from among the volunteers here when they are sent home. Unofficially it has been given out that men who will enlist in the regular army for three years will be given $500 each in lieu of travel pay. So far as I can learn by talking with a large number of enlisted men, even this large bait will fail to catch many of them, though a few may be induced to enlist. So far as I can judge from hearing the opinions of the men, it will be difficult to re-enlist enough men for one battalion in the whole Eighth army corps, even on the $500 basis. The government will have to send new troops here if the war continues, as I think it will, since the time for campaigning has about drawn to a close, and the enemy is as active as ever, and apparently still has ample resources.

There is but one thing that will terminate the rebellion, and that is to render it impossible for the insurgents to continue it by destroying their supply of food, burning their strongholds and preventing them from obtaining new supplies of arms and ammunition. Until their arms are captured they are not subdued and peace assured, no matter how much of their country we temporarily occupy, how many towns and trenches we capture or how much we disperse their organized army, for they will reoccupy all towns and trenches we withdraw from, return to every foot of country the soldiers abandon, and their scattered army will come together again like iron filings drawn by a magnet. The policy of going through their country just to show that we are able to do so and leaving stocks of food undestroyed and their towns uninjured, thus assuring them food and shelter when they return to continue the struggle, is the one which makes the volunteer feel that his energy and blood are being wasted, and that such work should be done by an army enlisted for that purpose and armed with the weapons best adapted for it. It is a job for cavalry, light artillery and infantry armed with long range rifles and smokeless powder. Especially are cavalry and a better system of transportation in the field required, and these are our chief weaknesses at present.

In a few days active field work will be rendered impossible by rain. There will be enough regulars here by that time to do the garrison duty necessary, and the volunteers could then be sent home. During the rainy season the government could send here all the regulars and equipment necessary for carrying on the right kind of campaign as soon as the dry season sets in next December, should the insurgents not surrender before that time, as in all probability they will not do. The most important need is cavalry, mounted on better horses than the little Filipino ponies now used and supplied with better and more mobile transportation than that now at hand, with a larger number of light Hotchkiss or mountain guns.

At present General Lawton is at Balinag, in Bulacan province, with two brigades, one of which is advanced seven miles on the road north to San Miguel, while General MacArthur is at Santo Tomas, in Pampanga province, on the railroad, with two brigades. The chief cities ahead are San Miguel, in front of Lawton, and San Isidro, the capital of Nueva Ecija province, and at present the temporary seat of the revolutionary government, equally distant from both columns. The ability of either one of these columns to advance without the simultaneous advance of the other is doubtful, since it might encounter practically the whole army of the enemy strongly intrenched. These two towns are the gateways to the famous mountain stronghold of Biacabato, and it is reasonable to suppose that at some point a determined stand would be made if our army advanced unless time is given to the insurgents to retire to their stronghold with supplies. Their chief incumbrance is their Spanish prisoners, whose cash value they have fixed at $7,000,000, and whom they will not give up until utterly unable longer to hold them.

It is found extremely difficult to keep Lawton's command supplied, though but 20 miles from the railroad, and the roads not yet severely damaged by the rains. To continue the advance, with the rains rapidly rendering the roads impassable and the rivers unfordable, would seem to be difficult, if not impossible. Had the campaign been pushed two months ago the rebels might have been reduced to the extremity of releasing their Spanish prisoners because of inability to care for them, but to my mind it is too late in the season for that now. As soon as the army retires the natives, armed and unarmed, will return, and the work of the campaign will be largely nullified. From what we learn that the Filipino soldiers are being paid regularly every month, a condition of affairs superior

It is, perhaps, at the lecture table that Lord Kelvin displays most of his characteristics. In the two lectures per week which he delivers to the junior class at Glasgow university he contrives to touch on most of the important points of his subject, passing from one to the other with a rapidity bewildering to lazy or ill trained students who prefer the beaten track.

Eggs, jellies, shoemaker's wax, treacle, all sorts of stuff, are used to illustrate the lectures, and homely experiments are recommended to the student, even the humble teaspoon. "So ill adapted to the purpose for which it is intended," being pressed into the service. In the famous egg experiment he shows how Columbus might have gained his object without breaking the egg. When boiled and set spinning on a table, the egg rises and spins on its end.

Unboiled eggs, owing to the fluidity of the interior, do not rise, but if set spinning and then suddenly stopped and immediately released, they continue their motion for a little time. Once, the result of a students' plot, raw eggs were substituted for the boiled ones, but science could discriminate and the verdict was unhesitatingly given, "None of them boiled."—Cassier's.

A COURT AT MANILA.

First Step In the Direction of Self-Government.

REPORT FROM OTIS SATISFACTORY

Little Inland Campaigning Possible In Luzon, Rainy Season Being On—Rebels Encouraged by Opposition Sentiment In the United States—Tenth Embarking.

MANILA, June 27.—The Montana and Kansas volunteers were returning from San Fernando and the Twelfth and Ninth regulars will replace them.

Sensr Luis Marinas, the first Spanish consul general at the Philippine islands, arrived here from Singapore on board the Isla la Luzon.

Delegations from the Spanish organizations, on tugs, met the steamer and welcomed the consul.

Great interest was taken in the result of the first step, which was being taken here, in the direction of the self-government. The court was sitting daily and the American and Filipino judges were holding consultations through an interpreter. A unanimous vote was required for a decision. Major General Otis persuaded Major Young of the Utah battery to remain on the court for a time after the battery departs. Three of the native justices were absent. Ambrosio Rianzares, justice of the criminal branch of the court, happened to be at Tarlac, then the seat of the insurgent government, when the appointments were announced and he was arrested and sentenced to banishment for life. His present whereabouts were not known.

Pedro Llorente, associate justice of the supreme court, was in Cebu, where he had great influence, working to popularize American rule with good results.

The native judges will hold criminal courts having jurisdiction over all offenses except those committed by soldiers or against military authority.

The United States transport Sherman sailed for the island of Negros with the Sixth infantry, where the Californians were stationed.

The Bantayan correspondent of The Noticiero writes that gunboat Albany appeared off Bantayan June 8 and her commander told the authorities of the town that unless they declared allegiance to the United States and raised the American flag after 15 days he would bombard the town. The Albany then sailed, after announcing that she would return. The town, when the dispatch was forwarded, was greatly panic-stricken and it was thought the authorities would probably comply with the demand of the commander of the gunboat.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—General Otis' detailed report of the conditions existing in the Philippines was considered very satisfactory at the war department. It is taken to mean that General Otis will not now prosecute a campaign on account of the rainy season, except where the insurgents make it necessary to defend the territory now in possession of the United States. That portion of the dispatch telling of the belief among Filipinos that the present policy of the United States will not be upheld was regarded as of great significance. It is believed that when the Filipinos see there is no hope of their recognition by the United States they will give up the fight. The absence of any suggestion as to more troops being needed was taken to mean that General Otis did not believe they could be used to advantage at present.

The cablegram said:

MANILA, June 26.

Adjutant General, Washington: Rainy season. Little inland campaigning possible in Luzon. We occupy large portion Tagalog country, lines stretching from Imus south to San Fernando north, nearly 60 miles, and to eastward into Laguna province. Insurgent armies have suffered great losses and are scattered; only large force held together about 4,000 in Tarlac province and northern Pampanga. Their scattered forces in bands of 50 to 500 in other portions of Luzon; in Cavite and Batangas provinces could assemble possibly 2,000, though demoralized from recent defeat; mass of people terrorized by insurgent soldiers, desire peace and American protection; no longer in on approach of our troops, unless forced by insurgents, but lately welcome them; no recent burning of towns; population within our lines becoming dense, taking up land cultivation extensively; kept out Manila as much as possible, as city population becoming too great to be cared for. Natives Southeast Luzon coming to drive out insurgents; only hope insurgent leaders is United States aid.

They proclaim near overthrow present administration to be followed by their independence and recognition by United States. This is the influence which enables them to hold out. Much contention prevails among them and no civil government remains; trade with ports, not in our possession, former source of insurgent revenue now interdicted; not certain of wisdom of this policy, as people in those ports are without supply of food and merchants suffering losses; meditate restoring trade privileges, although insurgents reap the benefits. Courts here is successful operation under direction of some Filipinos.

Affairs in other islands comparatively quiet; awaiting results in Luzon. All anxious for trade and repeated calls for American troops received. Am giving attention to Jolo archipelago and Palawan islands. Our troops have worked to limit of endurance. Volunteer organizations have been called in; replaced by regulars, who now occupy salient positions. Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Utah now taking transports and Sixth infantry sent to Negros to relieve California. These troops in good physical condition.

Sickness among troops has increased lately, due mostly to arduous service and climatic influences. Nothing alarming. Of the 12 per cent of the command reported sick, nearly 6 in general hospital, of whom 3 per cent have typhoid and 17 malarial fevers; 25 per cent have intestinal trouble; remaining 55 per cent have various ailments, 14 of which due to wound injuries. Many officers and men who served in Cuba break under recurrence of Cuban fever and regular regiments lately received are inadequately officered.

OTIS. The inadequacy of the number of officers mentioned in last part of above cablegram was remedied by the sailing of the transports Zealandia and Sheridan, carrying a number of officers for regiments in the Philippines.

Adjutant General Corbin said that all officers belonging to the regiments in the Philippines who were not absent on account of a surgeon's certificate were under orders to join their regiments. Forty-four sailed on the recent transports going to Manila.

Secretary Alger said that no action would be taken for the enlargement of the army or sending troops to reinforce General Otis until the return of President McKinley. He also said that General Wheeler would receive no assignment until that time.

Adjutant General Corbin received a telegram from General Shafter at San Francisco stating that the transport Sheridan sailed for Manila. General Young and aides, Colonel Doggett, Major Quinton and Companies B and H of the Fourteenth infantry, 239 enlisted men and two company officers were on board; Troops A and F, Fourth cavalry, 7 officers and 173 enlisted men; Lieutenant Moss and 25 men, Twenty-fourth infantry; 8 hospital corps men and 41 members of the signal corps were on the transport. Recruits numbering 1,248 for the regiments already in the Philippines were carried. In addition to this were a number of company officers and assistant surgeons.

OTIS. GOVERNOR ATKINSON'S OFFER.

Telegraphed He Could Furnish Two Regiments For Philippines.

WHEELING, June 27.—Governor Atkinson arrived from Charleston to attend the Elks' street fair, where he made the address of welcome. He sent the following telegram to Adjutant General Corbin of the United States army, at Washington:

WHEELING, June 26.

Major General H. C. Corbin, Washington: I am confident that I can provide the government, for the Philippines, practically intact, the two West Virginia regiments drilled and equipped last year for the Spanish war; and I sincerely hope you will allow me to do it. These two regiments can be gotten together, in my judgment, inside of two weeks, if you will call for them.

G. W. ATKINSON, Governor of West Virginia.

Thought the Filipinos Capable.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—Brigadier General Charles King, who returned from the Philippines a short time ago, in a letter to the Milwaukee Journal, published Monday, stated that the capability of the Filipinos for self-government could not be doubted and if given a fair chance they could look out for themselves start, they could look out for themselves infinitely better than our people imagine. He said they rank far higher than the Cubans or the uneducated negroes to whom the United States had given the right of suffrage.

Soldier Accidentally Drowned.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Gen. Davis, at San Juan, Porto Rico, reported Private George E. McDunnion, Company E, Eleventh infantry, was accidentally drowned there.

HE QUIT CHAUTAUQUA.

Harper No Longer Head of Collegiate Department.

METHODISTS WERE MUCH AROUSED

Objected to Moving Enterprises, Except Assembly, to Chicago—Rumored It Was Scheme of Baptists to Make It Adjunct of Chicago University.

CHICAGO, June 27.—A vain attempt to bring the Chautauqua enterprises to Chicago—all save the assembly, which would remain at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., according to The Record in its issue today, failed.

It was proposed to take the reading circle movement from Buffalo to Chicago, to take the publishing plant of Flood & Vincent, publishers of all the Chautauqua literature, to Chicago and to make this the center of the popular educational movement. It was understood that Bishop John H. Vincent, as chancellor of Chautauqua, was in favor of the plan of organization which included the removal to Chicago, the making of Dr. Harper the virtual head of the entire movement, the abolition of the office of superintendent of grounds, held by Dr. W. A. Duncan, and the office of treasurer, held by E. A. Skinner, and the creation of office of general manager, to be held by Ned Arden Flood, director of The University Press, managing editor of The Assembly Herald and superintendent of the publishing department of Flood & Vincent, also the position of head of the collegiate department, to be filled by Prof. George E. Vincent, assistant secretary of psychology at the University of Chicago.

When this plan became known it immediately struck terror to the hearts of the Methodists. They sought Bishop Vincent and asserted that the move would mean a "sell out" to the Baptists and that John D. Rockefeller would be in control of the Chautauqua movement. Dr. Harper heard of this and immediately announced that if there was a word of question impugning of his motives he would withdraw entirely from Chautauqua. At the meeting last January he resigned as head of the collegiate department.

In March, Lewis Miller, head of the business department of Chautauqua, died, and a reorganization became necessary. Hostility to the Chicago plan brought to the front Wilson M. Day of Cleveland, on whose proposition it was decided that all of the departments of the association except the assembly should be centered in Cleveland.

George E. Vincent, who is a son of the chancellor, was elected to take Dr. Harper's place at the head of the collegiate department. Flood and Vincent sold out their business on their own terms to Chautauqua, and next month the control of The Chautauqua, The Assembly Herald and all of the books, copyrights and publishing franchises of Chautauqua press will be turned over to Mr. Day, who assumes the position of general manager, a new office, which includes the duties of the superintendent of grounds and of treasurer. Dr. Theodore L. Flood of Meadville, Pa., who has for 20 years, edited The Chautauqua, the organ of the movement, retires from his connection with the paper and all other association interests with the September issue.

Clem Studebaker of South Bend, Ind., who has been acting as the chairman of the board of trustees since the death of Mr. Miller, will be elected permanent chairman in August.

Miss Helen Gould's endowment of $25,000, secured through Dr. Harper, together with $25,000 to be raised by the reorganizers, will be set aside for an endowment fund. Andrew Carnegie is to be interested in the plan if possible, and a large endowment secured from him.

HOSTILE TO MCKINLEY.

Governor Gave Out an Interview, Which Repudiated a Statement Made by Secretary Alger.

DETROIT, June 27.—Governor Pingree made a statement, brought out by Washington dispatches, which quoted Secretary Alger as saying that "Governor Pingree is for President McKinley first, last and all the time."

Said the governor: "If General Alger said that, it is his opinion from his point of view. The question whether I am for McKinley lies with the president, not with me. If General Alger knows that President McKinley is opposed to territorial expansion, and is not an advocate of the murders and the destruction being visited upon the innocent Filipinos, he has a right to say that I am for McKinley."

"If General Alger is informed that McKinley is opposed to trusts and to legislation which fosters, creates and encourages them, and in favor of legislation to restrict and suppress them, then I am closer to the opinions of McKinley than has generally been believed. If General Alger is assured that President McKinley is not in touch and sympathy with the disreputable political methods of Mark Hanna and his friends, and deprecates such leadership, then I am for McKinley."

The question of whether I favor McKinley is of no consequence in this senatorial matter, but I am for McKinley in everything he does which I consider right and against everything he does which I consider wrong."

Said Alliance Would Hurt Alger.

PAINESVILLE, June 27.—Senator Burrows of Michigan, in an interview here, declared that his colleague, Senator McMillan, would be a candidate to succeed himself and would be re-elected next year. Concerning Secretary Alger's alliance with Governor Pingree, Senator Burrows said he thought the secretary had destroyed what chance he might have had to go to the senate by making such an alliance.

WRANGLING THE TIME AWAY

Kentucky Democrats Again Failed to Make a Nomination Only Two Ballots Were Taken.

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—A continuous performance of howling farce, lasting about eight hours, a rare vocal entertainment, with soloists and a chorus of several hundred voices, declamation and tinhorn tests of lung power, made up the program of the sixth day's session of the Democratic state convention.

Angered by what they considered an arbitrary ruling of the chair, in refusing to allow an appeal from his decision, declaring out of order a motion to remove policemen from the hall, over half the delegates set about with all the energy they could command, to prevent by deafening noise the transaction of any further business until they secured a vote on this appeal.

Principally because of utter physical exhaustion the filibusters finally allowed themselves to be outwitted and a ballot on nomination for governor, which the chair had ordered and had tried repeatedly to proceed with, was concluded by having the county chairmen, or as many as would, come to the stage and yell their votes at the clerk, who, at a distance of a few inches, was able to catch the figures.

Before they fairly realized it they were beaten, and a second ballot was reached, this time with less tribulation. These two ballots, both fruitless, represented the day's work of the convention. After they were completed the convention adjourned until this morning.

Behind this spectacular entertainment, the three candidates for governor worked like beavers. It was clearly Goebel against the field, and the Kenton county leader, cold and nerveless as ever, successfully defied his two opponents to combine and defeat him. They may do it yet, but they had shown themselves woefully lacking in ability to throw their vote in any one direction or to keep it silent when their managers deemed it best that no votes be cast. Goebel controlled the organization and through it the state central committee, but the fight was as open and as fierce as it had been at any time.

NON-UNION MEN LEAVING.

General Disposition Among the Laboring People Not to Ride on Cars They Man In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—There was a general disposition among the workingmen to refuse to ride on cars manned by non-union crews, and if the conductor could not show a union card on demand workingmen refused to pay their fare or remain on the cars.

In consequence of this feeling, it was said, the non-union men are leaving the city in droves. The company had hoped to keep about 250 of them, but it was said that within a week not more than 50 would be left.

There was a serious outbreak of violence on a car manned by non-union men in South Brooklyn, just outside of city, last night. A crowd of 20 or more men boarded the car. They had previously placed a plank across the track. When the motorman alighted to remove the obstruction the crowd pelted him with eggs and stones and finally chased him half a mile. He was seriously injured, and the mob desisted only when he begged for mercy. The conductor was treated similarly. Then the crowd took possession of the car, broke all the windows, rang up fares on the register and refused to desist when an inspector arrived to take the car to the barns.

Knights of St. John.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—The twenty-first annual convention of the Knights of St. John opened with the attendance of about 400 delegates at pontifical high mass in St. John's cathedral. The convention proper began later in the chamber of commerce building with addresses of welcome by M. B. Excell, representing Mayor Farley, Bishop Horstman, Mrs. Charles W. Stewart and Brigadier General John Dunn. Supreme President Henry J. Wuest responded. In the afternoon the knights had a parade.

To Quit Playing In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 27.—No more league games this year will be played here after the series with Boston closes July 1. President Robison said the cause is the refusal of nearly every club that has played here this season, to return, owing to the poor attendance. All the Cleveland games will be transferred to other cities.

HAWKINS' FINE RECORD

Alger Examined and Praised It Highly.

THE TENTH WOULD LOSE $100,000

If Mustered Out In Pittsburgh—Secretary Said It Would Cost That Amount In Round Numbers—Can Decide Themselves at San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—When waited upon by Attorney General Elkin of Pennsylvania, R. B. Scandrett of Pittsburgh, Fred Edwards, register of Allegheny county; W. R. Andrews, private secretary to Senator Penrose, and others, who presented the views of the citizens' committees of Pittsburgh to have the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment mustered out at Pittsburgh, Secretary Alger was reported to have said:

"GENTLEMEN—While I appreciate the wishes of the people of the Smoky City and of Western Pennsylvania to have their soldier boys of the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, mustered out of the service at Pittsburgh instead of at San Francisco, I feel that that is a question that the officers and men alone should decide. It will mean in round numbers a loss to the regiment of about $100,000 if your request is granted, as that is about the difference between bringing the regiment to Pittsburgh for muster out and of mustering it out in San Francisco and then giving them travel pay and allowance to their homes."

"I advised the officers and men of all the volunteers at Manila of the difference in pay to them by the two systems, and Gen. Otis advised me that the Pennsylvanians, as well as nearly all of the others, preferred to be mustered out at San Francisco, and thus secure the extra amount that would come to each."

"However, when the Tenth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers, arrives at San Francisco if the officers and men change their minds and prefer to be mustered out at Pittsburgh I will see to it that their wishes are carried out. But they alone can decide this matter."

Promotion for Hawkins.

Mr. Elkin then brought up the matter of the promotion of Col. Hawkins to be brigadier-general. He cleverly sketched the splendid military record of Col. Hawkins and called especial attention to his services in the Philippines. He then told the secretary that a good deal of surprise was openly expressed all over Pennsylvania that Col. Hawkins should be about the only volunteer colonel in the Philippines to fail to receive this recognition and especially as he had merited it. Messrs. Scandrett, Edwards and Andrews followed in the same line and strongly urged the promotion.

Secretary Alger called for a copy of Col. Hawkins' record and after examining it, expressed himself in the highest terms about it. He appeared to be surprised and promised the delegation that he would call the president's attention to the matter as soon as he returned from Massachusetts.

The delegation then withdrew and held a short conference. It was agreed that the full committee should come here on July 6 to talk with the president and secretary again on this matter.

From what the secretary said about the muster out at Pittsburgh the members of the delegation realized that he thought the city of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania ought not to permit the members of the Tenth to suffer the loss of $100,000 and that if they agreed to muster out at Pittsburgh they should be reimbursed by the city or state.

Regiment En Route.

Homeward bound! Unless there has been some unexpected delay the Tenth regiment Pennsylvania volunteers is now en route from Manila to San Francisco, on board one of the army transports. This information was given to the Commercial Gazette's correspondent this afternoon by Adjutant-General Corbin, who said:

"Gen. Otis sent a cablegram yesterday announcing that the Pennsylvania troops were then embarking on one of the transports. That should not take long, and the transport is now undoubtedly on its way to San Francisco."

Gen. Corbin was then told of the warm welcome awaiting the Pennsylvania boys at Pittsburgh and the general desire that the regiment should be mustered out there instead of at San Francisco. In reply, he said:

"When the regiment arrives at San Francisco, if the officers and men desire to be mustered out at Pittsburgh the order will be at once issued to that effect. The regiment has made a splendid record in the Philippines, and the president believes in according to their desires as much as possible. It will be no trouble to muster them out at Pittsburgh. All we desire to know is the wishes of a majority of the officers and men."

SENATOR ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Said to Have Written a Letter, Alleged to Have Come From Philippines.

SIOUX FALLS, June 27.—Alf Burkholder, a newspaper man, has created a sensation in political and army circles in South Dakota, by charging that a United States senator forged a letter in support of the senator's hostility to expansion and to the war in the Philippines.

The letter purported to have been written by an officer of the First regiment, South Dakota volunteers, whose name was withheld through fear that the writer would be court-martialed.

THE EAST END.

A NEW DRY FLOOR

Among the Improvements Mentioned For the Brick Yard.

WATCHMAN AT RALSTON CROSSING

A Request to Be Made to the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Company—Henry Chambers Injured—Another Petition Being Circulated—New Case at the Post Office.

More improvements are slated for the East End brickyard. In a conversation with Alex Johnson, superintendent of the works, yesterday, that person said: "Yes, we intend to make some material changes in the works before many months pass. We are now figuring on a new dry floor with a capacity of at least 25,000 brick per day. We also intend to erect several new kilns, and with the new machinery in position there will not be a better plant in this state.

"The brick machine will be placed in position soon, for today work was commenced demolishing the old machine. The new boilers will be placed while work is being done on the brick machine."

WANT A WATCHMAN.

Ralston Crossing Will Be Discussed at Council Meeting.

Several business men of East End will appear before council this evening and ask that body to request the Pennsylvania railroad company to place a watchman at Ralston crossing. The place is a very dangerous one and residents of that part of the city are of the opinion that there should be a watchman at the crossing or the road should be improved by being brought up to the grade of the railroad. It is true that while very few accidents have happened at the place, it is one of the most dangerous parts of the road between Smith's Ferry and Wellsville.

CASE IN POSITION.

Improvements at the Postoffice Completed Yesterday.

Postmaster Baird yesterday completed the work of placing the new case in position. The case contains 126 boxes, of which 14 are combination and 112 general ones. The case is much larger than the old one, but since in position many persons who had no box in the past have taken one. The business of the office is increasing rapidly. Several other improvements will be made to the office in the near future. All the combination boxes are sold and 25 more will be added soon.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

Received From Daniel Eckler, One of the Recent Recruits Now In Cuba.

In a letter received from Daniel C. Eckler, of Troop K, Eighth United States cavalry, now stationed at Puerto Principe, Cuba, he says:

"We Americans can hardly form any correct conception of 'life in the Tropics.' To the generality of us, Cuba suggests the idea of heat and yellow fever, of venomous reptiles and insects, slaves and sugar, oranges and ever-blooming flowers—an idea in a great degree erroneous. While just at present we see the worst side of the 'Queen of the Antilles,' yet under the influence of Americans, we are beginning to realize why it is called the Beautiful Isle, and once called 'the most precious jewel of the Spanish crown.' While the lower class of Cubans are dirty, apparently never washing themselves only when it rains, standing like ducks, washing off the dirt, some going around with nothing on but a towel, the better class are beginning to pick up again. As you talk to them of their Cuba you can see the hearts of their sons and the dark, lustrous eyes of the maidens glow and glisten with pride. But to those who have any intention of making a visit to the island of Cuba, of traveling over the island, of enjoying the beautiful scenery, its oddities of manners and customs, I recommend to pick up a little Spanish even if it is only enough to ask for something to eat."

THE NEW SCHOOL TERM

Will Commence Second Monday In September.

BOARD OF EDUCATION LISTENED

To a Number of Architects Who Submitted Plans For the New East End Building—Three States Were Represented and Some Fine Plans Submitted.

The Board of Education held an interesting meeting last night, but transacted very little business. The nine architects who submitted plans, occupied the attention of the board for three hours, and when the last member of the board left the building, the big clock was striking the eleventh hour.

Opening of School.

This was the first business transacted by the board. Superintendent R. E. Rayman called attention to the matter first, as it required only a few minutes to set the date as September 11, for the commencement of the new term.

Paid Some Bills.

The following bills were ordered paid: J. H. McDole, $2.06; News Review, $24.75; John Wallace, $7.00; Kinsey, Schmetzenberg, Gaston, Burgess, board of election, $12.00; Marie Sutton, $0.75; Frank Crook, $1.00; Wilson Stationery Company, $4.50; Ohio Valley Gas Company, $36.80; Mrs. A. M. Davidson, $10.47; Potters' National Bank, $12.50; First National Bank, $75.00; Citizens' Bank, $25.00; Crisis, $0.30.

Pleasant Heights School.

George Olmhausen dropped in the meeting and said a few things about a building in Pleasant Heights. He was told to get the names of children who attended school from that district, a petition and a location for a building, come back at the next meeting and make a report. He stated he would do all asked of him, and

The Grant Street School

Improvements were brought up. The building committee decided upon the plans of Architect Nease for this work, and they were instructed to advertise for bids for the work, and commence on the building as soon as possible.

Listened to Architects.

For two hours the board heard what the architects had to say. There were 10 present and were as follows: C. M. Bartberger, J. P. Bailey, William Young Brady, F. H. DeArmett, W. J. Shaw, William Kaufman, of Pittsburg; Harry E. Farney, Wheeling; George F. Hammond, Cleveland; J. C. Cunningham, J. C. Nease, A. W. Scott, of this city. G. H. Hedges, of Pittsburg, sold building supplies and showed his samples. Plans from J. A. Snyder, of Beaver Falls, and F. C. Bate, of Cleveland were submitted, but the men were not present personally.

The Price Varied

from $15,000 to $25,000. Some plans included heating, others did not. Brick and frame building plans were submitted, and one architect furnished plans for a 10 room building to be built on the same ground as an 8 room building.

Took No Action.

All the members began to feel sleepy, and Dr. J. C. Taggart thought it would be a good idea to adjourn to meet Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at which time the matter will be settled. It is very likely the plans of an Ohio man will be selected.

BRUTE ALMOST LYNCHED.

Italian Assaulted a Girl Near Wampum, Pa.—Confessed His Crime—In Jail at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, June 27.—James Wilson, an Italian, who assaulted 15-year-old Lizzie Hubbard, and left her drugged and unconscious in a barn near Possum Hollow, was almost lynched by angry citizens, but 'Squire Parshall kept them off with a revolver.

When the officers reached Wampum with the prisoner and were waiting for a train, a mob got after the prisoner and once had a rope around his neck, but the officers rescued him.

Wilson is in jail here. He confessed his crime.

The girl was reported in a serious condition.

QUEEN HAS THE MEN.

Reviewed Troops, Which Were Praised by Attaches—Affair Considered Significant.

LONDON, June 27.—The queen, the Duke of Cambridge, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the Duke of Connaught, General Lord Wolsley, commander-in-chief of the army, Colonel Samuel Sumner, U. S. A., military attache of the United States embassy at London, and many princes and princesses were present on the famous plains of Aldershot to witness a review of over 18,000 of the best troops in the kingdom.

This review was interpreted in London as a means of satisfying Queen Victoria that her troops are ready for any emergency they may be called upon to meet, in the Transvaal or elsewhere.

Nearly all of the foreign military attaches were present and a profound impression was made upon them. The enthusiasm of the crowds was intense and the queen smiled approbation as each command came immediately under her eye.

Colonel Sumner and the other attaches characterized it as one of the finest reviews withing their experience.

GERMANY AGAIN OBJECTS.

When death has laid its cold and relentless hand upon a kind and loving husband, the wife cannot be blamed for asking herself if all her years of devotion and work were worth the while, when it comes so soon to this tragic end.

If men would only take the most common sense precautions against the encroachments of ill-health, there would be fewer houses of mourning, and fewer women left alone almost helpless before the battle of life is half over. A man's liver and stomach are twin machines that work together, either to make or unmake. If they work wrong, they deplete and poison his blood. Impure and impoverished blood mean sickness and death. If they work right, they purify and enrich the blood. A man whose blood is rich and pure, and whose liver is active cannot well be unhealthy. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and costiveness, which men generally disregard, are Nature's warnings that the twin mechanism, stomach and liver, is working against, instead of for him. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine to use under these circumstances. It creates appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and fills the arteries with rich, red, healthy blood. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, it is far superior to all the malt extracts. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not build sickly, flabby fat as cod liver oil does, but the firm, muscular tissues of health.

"For the last nine years," writes William Miller, Esq., of 651 Mulberry Street, Reading, Pa., "I have been very poor in health. I suffered with a running sore leg. I tried many kinds of different medicines, and doctors without relief. Then I used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and can say that I am entirely cured. I can now do as good a day's work as the next man."

Unfailable—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation and biliousness.

READ "How It Works." There is food for thought therein for President Peach and his would be astute following.

"LED BY THE NOSE."

Did you note the number of men responding to Councilman Smith's accusation the other day? "A guilty conscience needs no reminder."

UP TO THEM.

The next move in the police cases is now up to council. The mayor's position is plain, unmistakable and absolutely justifiable. He has filed most specific charges and has suspended the officers pending trial by council, according to law. He has firmly and positively refused to give away his evidence until the proper time--when the trial begins and witnesses are called. He has done all that is required of him, and has fulfilled the law to the letter. Council meets tonight and it is their move. Will they also obey the law and proceed with the trial? Will they do what is required of them and what is expected of them by their constituents? Will they do their duty or shirk it?

SIGNIFICANT.

"McKinley's Overthrow Hoped For. Filipinos Believe That Then Will Follow Independence for Them." This is a headline in the Democratic and anti-expansionist Pittsburg Post today. It is significant. It is more. It is a text and a political sermon in itself. It is a warning and a rebuke to all those, who, like the Post, are clamoring against the President and the policy of the government. It shows by their own confession that their agitation is giving comfort, hope and aid to the enemy, and, worse than all, is encouraging the Filipinos to continue the hopeless struggle and is entailing the unnecessary loss of additional American troops and treasure, which would have been obviated had the country shown a

HOW IT WORKS.

When Officer Smith arrests John Jones for drunkenness and the mayor sets a time for the hearing, it is neither necessary nor customary for the officer to furnish Jones with a specified charge stating that he is accused of being drunk at 12:30½ a. m., June 25, 1899, on the southwest corner of Fourth and Washington, six feet north of the postoffice and thirteen feet nine inches west of the car tracks. These interesting details are reserved for the police hearing.

Yet Jones has just as much right to insist on being shown specific charges of this kind as have Whan and Grim. He too, may want to subpoena witnesses and, according to Dr. Marshall, would be unable to do so without specific charges. And he, too, has just as much right, according to counsel for Whan and Grim, to demand that the mayor shall dismiss the charges against him on the failure of the arresting officer to present such charges. Anything more absurd can scarcely be imagined--even in council.

RIVER FALLING.

Navigation Will Be Suspended If It Continues at the Present Rate.

Among rivermen it was generally thought that the heavy rains which were general throughout this section Saturday night and early Sunday morning, would result in a barge stage, but the rise amounted to very little, and the river is falling. The stage was 4.6 feet. Neither the owners of packets or coal-boats can understand exactly what became of all the water that fell. The general opinion is that the ground was parched and absorbed most of the rain. The Kanawha is south tonight and the Virginia was up this afternoon.

A Pennsylvanian Guilty of Barbarous Cruelty to a Horse.

TRIED TO DODGE AGENT LLOYD

But the Officer Was Suspicious and Proved Too Slick For the Stranger, Who Was Recaptured as He Was Heading For Chester and Liberty.

J. S. Drake, of Pennsylvania, arrived here this morning driving a horse and wagon. He had a stick for a whip with a long piece of pliable wire for a lash and used it freely. Every time he hit the horse he either cut the skin or raised great welts. Humane Agent Lloyd got after him and told him to come along. Drake asked permission to unload first and promised to go around to Lloyd. He failed to do so and instead made all haste for the bridge to get out of Lloyd's jurisdiction. The agent, however, had been suspicious and made for the bridge when Drake failed to appear, capturing the man in good style. The Pennsylvanian was given a hearing before Justice Hill and fined $5 and costs. If it had been possible he should have been fined $500. It was the most cruel and atrocious act witnessed here for a long time.

Abe Bernstein Heavily Fined, as Were Two Visitors.

TOTAL FINES AMOUNTED TO $83

Gotham and Pointon Were Charged With Entering and Loitering About a Saloon After Hours, While the Proprietor Was Charged With Keeping Open.

Mayor Bough last evening held a session of court at which more money was collected than there was for the past two weeks. The fines and costs in the several cases amounted to $83.60.

Abe Bernstein, against whom was a charge of keeping his saloon open after hours, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. He paid the amount and was released.

John Gotham and William Pointon, the men who were caught in the saloon yesterday morning were fined $10 and costs each. These amounts were paid and the men allowed to go.

No arrests were made during the night and the jail is now empty.

Mayor Bough is selecting his list of special officers who will serve during the carnival, and will have the list ready for the public within a few days.

In police court proceedings of last night, the name of "Joe Erbstein" appeared as having had a saloon kept open after hours. The name should have been Abe Bernstein. Erbstein is in the wholesale business, and Bernstein is in the retail. Erbstein and Bernstein were formerly associated as partners in the liquor business, and in this manner last night's mistake was made. We gladly make the correction.

undoing.

A few weeks ago the negotiations in
New York were in fine shape. The options of all the plants had been secured,
and a basis of settlement had been reached.

Dos Passos, the promoter of the trust,
was to be paid a good slice of the common stock if the deal went through, but asked for cash instead. The smaller
firms taken in, hearing of this, imagined
Dos Passos was afraid of the common stock, and they too, became timid, and began to back out. That was the end.
The promoter is said to have lost $15,000
by the failure of the deal.

Another attempt may be made, but nothing definite has been planned.

Bridgeport at half-past 10 o'clock and
were brought to Wheeling with Meister's band and given the rigat of way in the parade. The East Liverpool boys were properly uniformed, and while not large in numbers made an excellent appearance."

A Mark Twain Story.

Apropos of the Portuguese reis (pronounced rays), when Mark Twain visited Fayal some years ago one of his companions invited him to dine, with eight others, at the principal hotel in that happy island. As soon as the cloth
was removed and the wine placed on the table the host called for the bill,
which amounted to 21,700 reis.

"Go, leave me to my misery, boys!"
ejaculated the unhappy man. "There
isn't money enough in the ship to pay
that bill. I am a ruined community.
Landlord, this is a mean swindle.
Here's $150, and it's all you'll get. I'll swim in blood before I'll pay a cent
more."

The landlord looked surprised, but immediately had his little account
translated "into a language that a Christian could understand," when it
was found that, at the rate of 1,000
reis to a dollar, the demand actually amounted to $21.70. More refreshments were ordered forthwith.--Cincinnati

BOOK BY JESSE JAMES.

Son of the Famous Bandit Becomes His Father's Historian.

FIRST AND ONLY TRUE STORY.

Young Author Declares All Others Are Tissues of Falsehood—Says He Did It All Himself—Wants the World to Know the Truth About Jesse James, Sr.

"Jesse James, My Father—The Only True Story of His Adventures Ever Written." This is the title of a book written by Jesse James, Jr., which has just made its appearance. The front outside cover bears a half tone picture of the author, and the back cover is devoted to a display advertisement of a "famous 5 cent cigar," which bears the author's name.

Young James sends the following letter to the Kansas City Times, together with an autograph copy of his book:

Dear Sir—I send you herewith a copy of a book I have written and just published. Anything you choose to say about it will be satisfactory to me. In the preface I state my reasons for writing it. I wrote every word in it myself, without help from any one, except that after it was written Mr. Groves of the Independence Sentinel, who printed it, looked it over and corrected the mistakes I made in grammar and punctuation. I am not a college graduate, so the public will pardon any mistakes in the book. You have my permission to use any part of the book you see fit in The Times. Yours sincerely, Jesse E. James.

The author quotes from "Noted Guerrillas," by Major John N. Edwards, before he dashes off his preface, as follows:

"It required indeed all the excesses of the civil war of 1861-5 to produce the genuine American guerrilla—more enterprising by far, more deadly, more capable of immense physical endurance, more fitted by nature for deeds of reckless hardihood and given over to less penitence or pleading when face to face with the final end than any French, Spanish, Italian or Mexican guerrilla notorious in song or story. He simply lived the life that was in him and took the worst or best as it came and fate decreed it. Circumstances made him unsparing and not any predisposition in race or rearing. Fought first with fire, he fought back with the torch, and, branded as an outlaw first in despite of all reason, he made the infamous badge a birthright and boasted of it as a blood red inheritance while flaunting it in the face of a civilization which denounced the criminals while condoning the crimes that made them such."

The young author gives his reasons for writing the book in his preface, which follows:

"Hundreds of different books have been written and published about Jesse James and what is commonly known as 'the James band.' Many of these books were false from cover to cover. A few had a grain or two of truth upon which were strung whole chapters of untruths. I have read them all, and there is not one of them that did not do a cruel injustice to the memory of my father and his family. In none of these books and in none of the thousands of newspaper articles that have been written about him have I yet seen him credited with having in his nature any of the human attributes of kindness, charity or honesty of purpose. In all of these writings his true character is entirely lost sight of and distorted into that of a veritable Frankenstein, who slew mercilessly and robbed for the mere love of adventure."

"This is because these writings were done by those who never knew my father. I defy the world to show that he ever slew a human being except in the protection of his own life or as a soldier in honorable warfare. His only brother, whose name was linked with his in all the years of his life, is a free man today, acquitted of all crime. There were lovable and noble traits in the character of my father, else why was it that for 16 long years, when there was a price on his head that would have made the betrayer rich, not one could be found who would betray him? Did ever a man live who had such staunch friends, many of whom were persecuted and made to suffer because of the steadfastness of their loyalty to him? Is it possible that an ignoble character could win and hold such friendship?"

"My object in writing this book is twofold. Thousands have asked me why I did not write such a book and promised to buy one if I did write it. If all of these keep their promise, it will have been a good business venture for me. One of my objects, then, in writing this book is in the hope it will bring some money for the support of my mother. My other object in writing it is to do something to correct the false impressions that the public have about the character of my father. Others may differ from me on this point, but I believe it my duty to the memory of my father that the truth about him be told. I make no claim to literary merit in this book. I have had little time in my life to go to school. In the years that boys usually spend in school I was at work earning wages for the support of my widowed mother and the education of my fatherless sister. I have tried to make this book a straightforward account of the things I write about as I see them."

In closing the author says "I have had an uphill fight. I ask the public to give me the credit of having worthy motives and of being desirous of succeeding in the world as a business man and a good citizen of the good old state of Missouri, on whose soil my father fought, bled and suffered as few men fought and few men suffered for the lost cause."

FOR PARIS EXPOSITION.

Colorado Will Send Solid Gold Nugget Model of Pike's Peak.

The commissioners in charge of the Colorado gold exhibit at the Paris exposition have decided to send a solid gold nugget miniature of Pike's peak of $1,000,000 value.

As a ton of gold is worth $602,928.50, the nugget will weigh about 1 2/3 tons. It will reach New York City under guard in a special car, and thence the government will convey it to Paris. The exposition commissioners have guaranteed its safe return.

The ore of the nugget represents nearly all the big producers of the state, the Cripple Creek mines being in the lead. Definite arrangements have not yet been made for casting the nugget. The ore which is in hand can be smelted at the Philadelphia smelter at Pueblo, even if the smelter strike continues. "Considerable artistic skill will be necessary to shape the nugget so as to represent the 40 acres of huge square boulders that cover the summit of Pike's peak. The canyons and general contour of the great mountain will require study and skill to fashion properly."

It is purposed to duplicate the mountain in its natural features, says the New York Herald, so that hundreds of thousands of visitors to its summit will recognize it in the nugget. The signal station on the summit, a squat building, only 18 feet high, but perhaps 40 long and 15 wide, will appear. Climbing up Engelmann's canyon will appear the famous cog road, with perhaps an engine and a coach, the regulation train on the highest railroad in the world.

A matrix may be prepared in the detail to show all these things, or skill in sculpture may be used in shaping the nugget from various minor castings. The work was to have been done in Denver at once, and the special train carrying the nugget mountain might have started for New York city in 30 days but for the strike.

POISONED MAN'S ORDEAL.

One of the most thrilling and unusual stories on record at Atlanta develops out of the action of Gus Keisler, near that city, in taking accidentally an overdose of Paris green. The young man lives three miles from Atlanta. The other morning, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he arose early, and, wanting a cup of coffee, picked up a mug on a nearby table, which contained a dark brown mixture, and, supposing it to be coffee, he filled the cup and drank the contents at a gulp. He soon felt dizzy, and was informed that he had taken a heavy dose of Paris green. He sprang on the back of a horse and commenced a furious race to Atlanta.

The powerful poison began to exert its effect, and he reeled in his saddle, while houses and trees swayed and rocked like a ship in a storm. He suffered fearful mental and physical agony, and finally dropped unconscious from the flying steed, after covering two miles. In a few minutes he was picked up and taken into a neighbor's house. He was restored to consciousness, although his recovery is not certain. The physicians say that only his strong will kept him alive while on the horse, as he had absorbed enough of the poison to destroy three men.

CIGARS IN HIS WOODEN LEG.

Convict Has a Hollow and Useful Artificial Member.

All records in the state penitentiary at Columbus, O., for ingenuity on the part of convicts to fool the prison officials were beaten the other day when it was discovered that cigars were being stolen by the hundreds from the prison cigar factory.

An investigation was ordered, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and it resulted in the discovery, so it is said, that John Thomas, a one legged prisoner, was doing most of the stealing. He wears a wooden leg. He had carved it out so that it was hollow, and in this each day he would conceal the cigars he managed to hold out right under the nose of the guard. About 15 other prisoners were implicated in the robbery.

FINE JOB WORK. The News

rooms are the best equipped in eastern Ohio, and we are consequently able to turn out large quantities of work on short notice.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

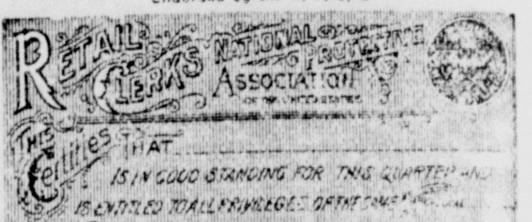

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns

PHILIPPINE VOLUNTEERS

Correspondent Tells Why They Are Sick of the Campaign.

NOT MANY LIKELY TO RE-ENLIST.

He Declares the Men Are Poorly Armed and Equipped and Overworked to Save Regulars—Work Which Will Have to Be Done All Over Again.

The New York Post's correspondent at Balinag, P. I., writing under date of April 10 about the volunteers in the Philippines, says:

If Adjutant General Corbin had been here to see how the volunteers of the Eighth army corps received the interview he gave to the press late in March, he would have come to the conclusion that he was neither a prophet nor descended from one. General Corbin said that the volunteers were so anxious to stay here and fight that he believed there would be a riot if they were ordered home. There was an approach to a riot when the papers containing the interview were circulated throughout the camps, and if the troops are not ordered home soon some one will hear the opinion of the volunteers expressed in a loud voice.

It is a mistaken idea that the volunteers would rather stay here and fight than go home. Perhaps, if they felt that they had been properly treated and their fighting made effective, they might be willing to remain and finish the work, but feeling as they do—that they have been given the hard campaigning to do, while the regulars have been held in reserve; that they have been sent to the front with Springfields and black powder, while troops armed with Krag and smokeless powder are kept in Manila; that the reasons given for not arming them properly are untrue and silly—namely, that the volunteer does not know how to care for a gun of the complex mechanism of the Krag and is not a good enough shot to use a long range gun to advantage—that he has been rushed up against intrenchments to do the work artillery should perform; that practically no preparation for campaigning was made during the six months that the army lay in Manila, and we are now hampered in our movements by that lack of preparation, and because he sees very little practical outcome from all his fighting, under the policy of not hurting the enemy, which is now imposed upon the army—he is disgusted and ready to quit.

I am stating plainly the frame of mind of the volunteer. All the enthusiasm with which he went into the field when Aguinaldo threw down the gage of battle in February has oozed out of him, not that his courage is any the less nor that his patriotism has declined, but because he feels that he has been abused in the matter of equipment; that the fruits of his fighting are not being gathered, and that he is now being worked beyond his legitimate share, deliberately to save the regulars, on the principle followed by the man who rents a horse for a few days and gets all the work possible out of him before the time is up.

It is very flattering to his guide to be told that he is being used because he is a better soldier than the regular, has had more experience in fighting and is better acclimated; yet, while he knows this to be true, he naturally wonders why, if he is so good a soldier, he should be so poorly armed and cared for. He is not satisfied with the theory of the ordnance department, as expressed in an interview by the chief of ordnance at Washington, that he is not familiar with guns, and that the regular army is composed of sharpshooters, knowing, as he does, that 75 per cent of the volunteers were good rifle shots before they enlisted and have handled firearms from childhood, and that 80 per cent of the regular army here are raw recruits, who were not marksmen when they enlisted and have had none of the target practice the ordnance officer gives as the reason why the regulars are sharpshooters. He has little patience with a theory that is at such plain variance with the facts, especially if that theory results in sending him with a Springfield and black powder against a Mauser and smokeless powder.

For these reasons the volunteers in the Philippines are heartily sick of their job and are eager to be sent home. One cannot go through the camps without hearing it on every side. Every "hop" to the effect that the homeward movement will soon begin is received with cheers and a celebration. "Hop" is a contraction for "hop dream," as camp rumors are called. The boys used to sing:

"Oh, I don't know; it may be so, But it sounds like a new hop dream."

But they have passed that stage now and simply inquire what is the latest "hop." They think that the policy of making the war as easy as possible for the enemy is wasting their energies and prolonging the struggle. Consequently they say that the army congress has voted to the government should be used for that purpose. They also say that they enlisted for the Spanish war and not to fight "niggers," and while they were perfectly willing, and even eager, to fight them so long as it was a patriotic duty to do so, owing to the fact that they were the only troops here, they feel that the necessity has passed, and that, had the government used half the energy in sending out regulars that was displayed in rushing poorly equipped volunteers out here, there would now be enough regulars here to relieve them. One hears these opinions expressed on every side and controverted nowhere.

From interviews in the papers, as well as from "pointers" received here from headquarters, it seems to be the opinion of the authorities that about two regiments can be recruited from among the volunteers here when they are sent home. Unofficially it has been given out that men who will enlist in the regular army for three years will be given $500 each in lieu of travel pay. So far as I can learn by talking with a large number of enlisted men, even this large bait will fail to catch many of them, though a few may be induced to enlist. So far as I can judge from hearing the opinions of the men, it will be difficult to re-enlist enough men for one battalion in the whole Eighth army corps, even on the $500 basis. The government will have to send new troops here if the war continues, as I think it will, since the time for campaigning has about drawn to a close, and the enemy is as active as ever, and apparently still has ample resources.

There is but one thing that will terminate the rebellion, and that is to render it impossible for the insurgents to continue it by destroying their supply of food, burning their strongholds and preventing them from obtaining new supplies of arms and ammunition. Until their arms are captured they are not subdued and peace assured, no matter how much of their country we temporarily occupy, how many towns and trenches we capture or how much we disperse their organized army, for they will reoccupy all towns and trenches we withdraw from, return to every foot of country the soldiers abandon, and their scattered army will come together again like iron filings drawn by a magnet. The policy of going through their country just to show that we are able to do so and leaving stocks of food undestroyed and their towns uninjured, thus assuring them food and shelter when they return to continue the struggle, is the one which makes the volunteer feel that his energy and blood are being wasted; and that such work should be done by an army enlisted for that purpose and armed with the weapons best adapted for it. It is a job for cavalry, light artillery and infantry armed with long range rifles and smokeless powder. Especially are cavalry and a better system of transportation in the field required, and these are our chief weaknesses at present.

In a few days active field work will be rendered impossible by rain. There will be enough regulars here by that time to do the garrison duty necessary, and the volunteers could then be sent home. During the rainy season the government could send here all the regulars and equipment necessary for carrying on the right kind of campaign as soon as the dry season sets in next December, should the insurgents not surrender before that time, as in all probability they will not do. The most important need is cavalry, mounted on better horses than the little Filipino ponies now used and supplied with better and more mobile transportation than that now at hand, with a larger number of light Hotchkiss or mountain guns.

At present General Lawton is at Balinag, in Bulacan province, with two brigades, one of which is advanced seven miles on the road north to San Miguel, while General MacArthur is at Santo Tomas, in Pampanga province, on the railroad, with two brigades. The chief cities ahead are San Miguel, in front of Lawton, and San Isidro, the capital of Nueva Ecija province, and at present the temporary seat of the revolutionary government, equally distant from both columns. The ability of either one of these columns to advance without the simultaneous advance of the other is doubtful, since it might encounter practically the whole army of the enemy strongly intrenched. These two towns are the gateways to the famous mountain stronghold of Biacabato, and it is reasonable to suppose that at some point a determined stand would be made if our army advanced unless time is given to the insurgents to retire to their stronghold with supplies. Their chief incumbrance is their Spanish prisoners, whose cash value they have fixed at $7,000,000, and whom they will not give up until utterly unable longer to hold them.

It is found extremely difficult to keep Lawton's command supplied, though but 20 miles from the railroad, and the roads not yet severely damaged by the rains. To continue the advance, with the rains rapidly rendering the roads impassable and the rivers unfordable, would seem to be difficult, if not impossible. Had the campaign been pushed two months ago the rebels might have been reduced to the extremity of releasing their Spanish prisoners because of inability to care for them, but to my mind it is too late in the season for that now. As soon as the army retires the natives, armed and unarmed, will return, and the work of the campaign will be largely nullified. From paign will be largely nullified. From natives we learn that the Filipino soldiers are being paid regularly every month, a condition of affairs superior to that existing in the Spanish army where many of them served. They receive $8 Mexican, equal to $4 gold and are perfectly satisfied. This indicates a treasury not yet exhausted. Possibly it suggests extraneous financial aid for diplomatic purposes. At all events it shows that, so long as we leave them food and shelter, they have the means for continuing the struggle.

His Handy Valise.

An old friend of the late ex-Governor Oglesby tells a reminiscence of a valise. He was traveling through the state and met the governor on the train.

When they were seated, the governor drew out a valise that had a peculiar and handy way of being opened from the top. It was made of strong leather and had tags pasted all over it.

"I carried this valise through the Holy Land," said the governor. "I think a great deal of it."

"I suppose it brings up some pleasant memories," suggested the other traveler.

"More than that," was the reply, and the keen eyes of the governor twinkled as he reached down and touched a button and the valise opened immediately, but cautiously, at the top. It opened wide enough to admit a hand and to permit it to withdraw with a black bottle in its clutch.

"This is a great valise. I can get a bottle out of it, and nobody ever sees me."

When the residence of ex-Governor Oglesby burned, all of his private papers of every sort and all of his war trophies were destroyed. A short time after he met this same peripatetic friend.

"It was a great loss you sustained, governor," he said.

"Yes, all my papers are gone. Sorry to lose them, too, and then my swords are gone too. I was sorry to lose them, and I know you'll be grieved to hear it—that valise was burned up. Yes, it's gone. Bob Ingersoll gave me that valise, and I did hate to lose it, it was so handy."—Chicago Tribune.

Clever Enough to Vote.

A keen witted fellow, despite his general ignorance, was brought down to the courthouse to receive the rights of citizenship.

"Name the capital of the nation," said the judge.

The applicant scratched his head.

"I can't just place it, judge," he said, "but you name over a few of the towns and I'll tell you when you strike it."

"Is it Chicago?" queried the judge.

"No."

"Is it St. Louis?"

"No."

"Is it Arizona?"

"No."

"Is it Washington?"

The candidate looked puzzled. He hesitated.

"Say, judge," he slowly replied, "if that ain't the place it's a close shot!"

He got his papers.

Another candidate was brought in by a well known local politician.

"Let me see what you know about geography," said the judge. "Supposing you and Mr. Blank walked straight down to the lake and started across it, going due north, where would you land?"

"On the bottom," said the candidate promptly.

He got his papers too.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Where Soldiers Must Swim.

In the Dutch army a man must be able to swim as well as to fight. Moreover, if he is in the cavalry he must have a horse which will take a river as easily as a hunter takes a fence.

Swimming maneuvers are part of the regular drill there. Collapsible canvas boats, manned by a few oarsmen, lead the horses, so that they do not attempt to land on stone quays and other difficult points. The men swim across with their horses and on them. They do it in swimming costume and in all the accoutrements of war.

There are few nautical emergencies for which the Dutch army is not prepared. Some of the officers have even reached a degree of proficiency that not only their horses and kit cross the river with them, but their pet dogs sit upon their shoulders and are borne over almost without getting wet.—Stray Stories.

Trying It on a Dog.

The sultan of Turkey is most inquisitive as to what is said and written about him abroad. Every day translations are laid before him from the newspapers of the world, and these are all closely perused. His majesty, by the way, is a bad hand at suffering.

At one time he wanted to have an aching tooth removed and dared not. Eight slaves had molars drawn out in his presence that he might have an opportunity of judging the extent of suffering entailed, and finally the sultan decided that he would rather bear the pain than undergo such an ordeal.

How He Explained.

"How do you explain the phenomena upon which you base your new discovery?" asked the inquisitive friend.

"Why, I adopt the usual method. I use words so big as to prevent anybody who is not in the same business from undertaking to contradict me. And then if anybody objects, I can say it is professional jealousy."

FIRST IN MALOLOS.

How Funston's Brave Men Entered the Filipino Capital.

James J. Corkhill of Company E, Kansas Twentieth regiment, writes to the Alma (Kan.) Enterprise this account of how it happened that the flag of the Twentieth Kansas was the first to float over Malolos, the insurgent capital.

"We were halted in the shade just outside the city when Colonel Funston came galloping down the line and told our commander that the general wanted a few men to advance ahead of the lines to reconnoiter. Lieutenant Ball and 16 men from Company E were chosen, your correspondent happening to be one of the lucky number. We cautiously advanced into the outskirts of the town and wended our way up Main street (although we didn't know it was Main street), keeping as much as possible under cover of the bamboo shacks. We soon discovered that the negroes had breastworks thrown across the street and in front of the large Catholic church. Almost at the same time they saw us, and a volley of Mausers flew over our heads.

"Well," said Colonel Funston, "that's all the general wanted to know," but after he held a little confab with Lieutenant Ball they decided on a closer acquaintance with our dusky friends. "It's a little risky, but I think we can do it," said Colonel Funston. "Come on, boys; let's get them out of there!"

"So away we went up the street like a whirlwind, yelling and shooting and making racket enough to scare a whole army. Little Colonel Funston, with his revolver in one hand, was waving his hat in the other and yelling, 'Give it to them, boys; give it to them!' I guess the negroes thought that his satanic majesty was indeed after them, or that the whole American army was upon them, for, after firing a couple of volleys at us, they turned and ran as I never saw any one run before. On through the public square we chased them and clear to the other side of the town.

"Thus it was that 16 Kansas boys, led by our brave little colonel and a daring second lieutenant, drove the insurgents out of their capital city.

"An hour later, when we returned, we found that the army had poured in and filled the town, and our regiment was sitting in the shade of Aguinaldo's doorstep. Before leaving, the insurgents had succeeded in setting fire to the large church, which was now in flames. Many of the Chinese remained in the town, and when our little squad dashed into the public square it was amusing to see the 'Chenomen' crawling out of windows and cellars and from under bridges, each carrying a little white flag and shouting: 'Amego, amego! Chenomuch amego!'

HYDROGEN LIQUEFIED.

Remarkable Scientific Achievement of Professor Dewar of London.

The man of the hour in the scientific world is Professor Dewar of the Royal Institution of London, who has liquefied hydrogen. According to the New York Journal, the professor said liquid hydrogen is a clear, colorless, transparent and very volatile fluid.

It is no clearer than pure water, but has only one-fourteenth of the density of water. In its lightness it is out of all proportion to any known liquid. A piece of paper when placed in it sinks.

"The discovery," said Professor Dewar, "has cost many a weary night during the last ten years, and the amount of money spent upon it has been considerable. Still, I think it was worth it all."

"We have now got within 20 degrees of absolute zero, which is represented by 494 degrees F. and 273 degrees C. below zero. The boiling point of liquid hydrogen is 352 degrees below zero, at which it is capable of enormous pressure. Its practical utility, according to the average lay mind, no man can speak about yet. We have been studying for about 300 years the relations of matter and energy within a range of 800 degrees from absolute zero. Now we have reached another epoch, relatively. Another few hundred years are required to study the new conditions before speaking about 'practical utility.'

"The world can well afford to devote at least 50 years to the new conditions, considering the time that has been spent on the old. The chief point to dwell upon is that a new agent of research has been introduced into the scientific world: a mightier instrument has been placed in our hands. Liquid air was hailed as a great discovery, but the difference between liquid hydrogen and liquid air is as great, if not greater, than the difference between the ordinary temperature and that of liquid air. My discovery must affect every problem of physics and chemistry.

"Hydrogen from time immemorial has been looked upon as a gas. It has now been proved to be a liquid. Electrical conductivity, photographic action and almost every chemical question will now have to be reconsidered in the light of new conditions from the science of hundreds of years ago in order to see the effect. Coronium, we believe, is a more volatile body. Whether we can ever get that matter in sufficient quantity to liquefy is another question, but if we can I am hopeful that we will get from it even a lower temperature than liquefied hydrogen provides."

It is, perhaps, at the lecture table that Lord Kelvin displays most of his characteristics. In the two lectures per week which he delivers to the junior class at Glasgow university he contrives to touch on most of the important points of his subject, passing from one to the other with a rapidity bewildering to lazy or ill trained students who prefer the beaten track.

Eggs, jellies, shoemaker's wax, treacle, all sorts of stuff, are used to illustrate the lectures, and homely experiments are recommended to the student, even the humble teaspoon, "so ill adapted to the purpose for which it is intended," being pressed into the service. In the famous egg experiment he shows how Columbus might have gained his object without breaking the egg. When boiled and set spinning on a table, the egg rises and spins on its end.

Unboiled eggs, owing to the fluidity of the interior, do not rise, but if set spinning and then suddenly stopped and immediately released, they continue their motion for a little time. Once, the result of a student's plot, raw eggs were substituted for the boiled ones, but science could discriminate and the verdict was unhesitatingly given, "None of them boiled."—Cassier's.
